Yanks Fighting in Metz

By WILLIAM FRYE

LONDON, Nov. 18 (AP) .British Second Army troops have struck the enemy flank in Germany 13 miles above the American sector a t Aachen, a front dispatch disclosed tonight, while to the south Doughboys of the U. S. Third Ar my fought house-to-house inside formidable fortress Metz. The British Second and the American Ninth a nd First Armies, forming a solid assault arc, hammered out slow gains today against fanatical resistance on the broadening and lengthening Aachen sector. (A dispatch from A. P. Correspondent Wes Gallagher with the U. S Ninth Army said the Nazis were throwing in heavy tank forces to block American armored columns, and are making the Rhineland struggle a bloody, gruelling war of survival which may take days and weeks of the heaviest fighting to decide.)

Disclosure that troops under the British command were fighting in Germany was only one highlight in a series of sensational advances along a 400-mile Western Front turned into flaming battle by six Allied armies of 1,250,000 men.

Besides battling into Metz—never taken by frontal assault in modern history—the Third Army invaded Germany at a new point near Luxembourg, and opened a 15-mile-broad attack toward the Reich's northern Saar.

The French at the lower end of the front punched to within sight of Belfort and the strategic gap to southwestern Germany. North of the French sector, the U. S. Seventh Army advanced from two to three miles toward Strasbourg along a 30-mile front.

British Second Army troops in southeatern Holland scored two major crossings of the Zig canal, last water barrier before the Maas (Meuse) river bend and the Venlo gateway to Germany.

The British attack in Germany, synchronized with the American offensive, virtually isolated Geilenkirchen, 13 miles north of Aachen, by advances past the town on both the north and south. The British cut the road from Geilenkirchen to Heinsberg farther north. They also smashed forward nearly two miles in an advance south of the town toward Prummern, two miles east of Geilenkorchen. Three hundred prisoners were taken.

The U. S. Ninth Army meanwhile reported "slow but steady gains" today in the arc east of Aachen, and the First Army also lugged forward against strongly-entrenched Germans.

The Germans were throwing tanks and troops into attempts, reckles of cost, tos tem the American advance, fighting for every inch of ground. The greatest advance by the First Army in three days of fighting has been only two kilometers (1¼ miles), a front dispatch said, but there are indications the Germans have been badly shaken by terrific artillery and air bombardment and have suffered heavy losses.

Berlin pictured the assault in the Aachen sector as lengthening. The American wedge has been thrust now to within 25 miles of the Rhine.

Patton's rampant Third Army sent mechanized cavalry patrols over the German border near Perl, inside the German border near the junction of the Luxembourg and French frontiers, and about five miles northeast of the Saar itself.

Infantry crossed the Moselle bridge into Metz from the north during the night, while other patrols from the south also penetrated the city, where the Ger-

GOOD SHOOTING—The U. S. S. Tennessee scored 12 hits out of 13 salvos in battle of Surigao straits.

Jap Fleet Trapped Self

By CHARLES McMURTRY

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Nov. 18 (AP)—A skipper of one of the United States' elderly battleships blames the Japanese defeat in Surigao straits—when eight enemy vessels came through and eight were sunk—on the incredible co-operation of the Japanese commander in bringing his ships exactly where the Americans thought he would have them.

The American skipper, Capt. John B. Heffernan of Washington, Ind., was in command of the old battleship Tennessee, one of the six which sank the enemy fleet, with the aid of smaller vessels, in just 15 minutes.

The Jap force in effect trapped itself, he said in an interview. "If we'd told them just what to do, we couldn't have improved on their disposition. It was as easy as playing a game on a board," he declared.

For days, he said, the American fleet had been lying east of the straits which separate Leyte from Mindanao and Dinagat islands. The Japs must have known how big it was and where it was, because their observation planes had been over it almost constantly.

Nevertheless, the Jap commander obligingly brought his fleet in from the Sulu sea, put his two battleships in front as they entered the narrow strait.

All the American battleships—the Tennessee, the West Virginia, the Maryland, the Mississippi, the California and the old fleet flagship, Pennsylvania—were in firing position. Only the two Jap battleships—none of the supporting cruisers and destroyers were within range. They were bottled up in the straits behind each other—and the Americans were the cross of the T famous in naval strategy during the whole age of steam.

Thus almost all of the American guns could fire—many of them for the first time in their long history—against enemy naval vessels.

"It was murder in the first degree," said Comr. S. P. Smith, Washington, D. C., the Tennessee's executive officer.

The Tennessee, Heffernan said, fired 13 salvos from its 14-inch guns and scored hits with 12 of them—a total of 69 shells from its forward batteries and three more salvos from its after guns as the battleship turned.

Other ships did as well or better. The West Virginia got 90 16-inch shells away.

The Tennessee concentrated on the leading Jap battlewagon, identified tentatively as the Fuso. Although not claiming exclusive credit for sinking her, the captain said his ship was able to send shells toward other Jap battleships in the 15-minute battle.

"It was the most remarkable fireworks I ever saw," he said.

JAP TANKS PIERCE YANK LINE IN LEYTE

By C. YATES M'DANIEL

MACARTHUR HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Nov. 18 (AP)—Japanese tanks, large and small, broke through an American roadblock to reinforce troops stubbornly resisting the advance of the U. S. 24th Division against the important Ormoc Road village of Limon, it was revealed today.

American patrols penetrating the outskirts of Limon near the northern terminus of the Ormoc highway believed the Japanese had withdrawn from the village after a terrific artillery barrage. When the main body of troops pressed against the city they met strong Japanese opposition.

Fred Hampson, Associated Press war correspondent with the 24th Division, said Limon is held by hundreds of well dug-in Jap soldiers with all types of weapons except heavy artillery.

Yesterday afternoon, he reported, a Japanese light tank ran a gantlet of American fire to get through a roadblock 2½ miles south of Limon and into the village. Later six large tanks tried the same trick, but three were turned back.

Hampson's dispatch did not indicate what happened to the other three and it can be assumed they, too, got through.

He added that the Japanese evidently intend to hold the vale below hotly contested Breakneck Ridge overlooking Limon as long as possible and at any cost until the greater portion of their Ormoc forces can consolidate their positions for a major stand, possibly in a hilly region where the road branches from the Ormoc highway and runs to the west coast of Leyte peninsula.

Nazis Give Way to Reds At Budapest

By DANIEL DE LUCE

MOSCOW, Nov. 18 (AP)—Nazi defenders on a battleline stretching northeast from besieged Budapest gave ground again today in the face of a sustained Russian flanking maneuver that pressed the enemy deeper into the Matra and Bukk mountains on the Slovakian frontier.

The Russian drive imperilled three important Hungarian rail towns—Eger, Miskolc and Hatvan.

The valley town of Eger is on a secondary communications route barely four miles from a Russian column that stormed through Maklar after capture yesterday of Fuzesabony on the Budapest-Miskolc railway. This advance gave the Red army control of a 27-mile section of that vital line.

ROME, Nov. 18 (AP)—Monte Fortino, five miles south of Faenza, has been captured by Polish troops in the Eighth Army drive on that important communications center on the Bologna-Rimini road.

Robots Shot Down By Coastal Gunners

LONDON, Nov. 18 (AP)—Direct hits on several flying bombs before they got inland were scored by coastal anti-aircraft gunners as the Germans launched a small-scale attack from the North sea during the night.

WESTERN FRONT—American patrols were entering Metz (1) today from both the north and south while other Yank forces plunged toward the northern Saar, reaching a point (2) 20 miles northwest of Saarbrucken. Ninth Army troops turned back a German assault near Immendorf (3), northeast of Aachen, and British Second Army forces gained to threaten (4) Venlo.

Strike Picket Lines Planned to Tie Food

Voting unanimously to continue their strike, Boston truck drivers today debated establishment of picket lines around warehouses to extend the crippling of transportation of food, which has threatened to bring scanty Thanksgiving fare to many Greater Boston homes.

As the strikers were voting in the South End Municipal Bldg. the State Guard entered the strike to transport hospital supplies and police cruiser cars escorted the few trucks rolling through the city carrying perishable food and war materials.

Strike leaders said they had been informed members of the Warehousemen's union would not cross any picket lines established by the drivers but they were debating whether such action would turn their "holiday" into an actual strike.

Leroy A. LaMier, chairman of the mass meeting, told the drivers of the unavailing efforts of their leaders to establish communication with union President John M. Sullivan and John English, international representative from New York.

He said a committee conferring today with Gen. Charles H. Cole, chairman of the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, reported Cole was equally unsuccessful. State Labor Comr. James D. Moriarty was expected to return to Boston today from New Orleans to join the conferees.

The first request for State Guard assistance was received by Col. Charles Kilpatrick, acting adjutant general, from Lynn Hospital, which wished a shipment of oxygen tanks delivered from a Cambridge firm.

A State Guard truck and driver picked up the load and delivered it to the hospital, Kilpatrick said.

Other trucks, bearing perishable foods for Westover Field and Camp Myles Standish, were escorted to the city line by police cruiser cars. A Red Cross truck, carrying a shipment of blood plasma to Hartford, Ct., was given similar convoy.

Other cruisers, in answer to requests from shippers, picked up trucks, coming from distant points with war materials, at the city's outskirts and escorted them to their destinations.

State officials, still unable to heal the breach between drivers of Local 25, International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs, and their union officials, stood by at the State House awaiting whatever action would transpire.

Despite their pleas, a superior court order and threats of government intervention the drivers persisted in their refusal to return to work until granted an election of officers.

Market men warned that Thanksgiving fare would be thin next week unless food transport was resumed by Monday. They expressed alarm at the growing

Report Coffee To Be Rationed

Coffee will be back on the list of rationed commodities at midnight tomorrow, according to rumors in the grocery trade which were not denied by OPA this afternoon.

OPA officials also refused to confirm the reports, although one leading food official declared wholesalers and retailers have already been notified of coffee rationing by OPA.

Regional officers of OPA said: "All information on that score must come from Washington. Up until today we have not received any advice about coffee rationing from our headquarters. But anything can happen along that line."

Food Administrator Chester Bowles recently said coffee prices would not be increased. He said nothing about rationing.

IT'S CHRISTMAS EVE

Last One for Doomed Baby Boy

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Nov. 18—Three-year-old Forest (Nubbins) Hoffman, who is fated to die soon because of an incurable bladder condition, will climb into his little bed tonight with the happy belief it is Christmas Eve.

Ten physicians have agreed he has a very short time to live, so short his parents have arranged that he shall have a last Christmas and know all the joy of it before death can claim him.

This morning, his father, Marshall H. Hoffman, tacked a sign on the front of his home. It read:

"Please call at side door."

The growing procession of visitors and the hourly arrival of Christmas presents for Nubbins made it necessary, Hoffman said. He explained:

"The boy's been right pert, but all the excitement of the past few days has sent his fever up. We've got to keep the little fellow quiet now, because he's just living for that early Christmas party.

"We're not turning anybody away—just diverting them. The kids from the neighborhood are always welcome, of course. My wife lets them in two at a time and Nubbins sit on the floor and plays with them. He'll do that for an hour and a half before he wants to go to bed.

"He can't crawl or walk now, but he has lots of fun sitting and playing with his friends."

Nubbins doesn't know what's wrong with him. He has placed his trust with the world of adults. He doesn't wonder about the mysterious packages that have come from far-away strangers, for he was too young last Christmas to ponder over his presents. This, in a sense, will be his first Christmas, as well as his last.

The gifts, including a mysterious package 3 feet long and 14 inches wide that Nubbins eyed delightedly, are piled high in one room of the house. Nubbins holds court for his playmates in the front room.

CHRISTMAS TREE
Nubbins Will Have His Tonight

Nubbins recently pored over a big catalogue that he regarded as a treasure. It was full of the kind of presents a 3-year-old hopes Santa will bring. He picked out a few. "I'd sure like to have those," he told his father and mother.

He will find them tomorrow morning, handsomely wrapped in red ribbon and glittering Christmas style. They include an airplane, a battleship, a fire engine and a jeep.

His father is a 33-year-old baggageman employed by the Union Pacific R. R. William Jeffers, president of the railroad, has given orders that Nubbins is to have "all the toys he wants."

The Hoffmans hold no hope for their only child. The father explained:

"We know the score. We've got courage, and we're resigned to whatever comes. The only break we want is to keep the little fellow well for his party, so he can sit in his high-chair and eat a Christmas turkey dinner with us."

Weymouth Toy Plant Burns

Thousands of dollars worth of Christmas toys were destroyed today as a two-alarm fire swept through three buildings of the New England Toy & Wood Products Co. in Broad st., Weymouth, and threatened to spread for a time to adjoining dwellings.

Charles S. Boracks, owner of the plant, said damage might go as high as $15,000 in the blaze which also destroyed lobster pots and woodworking machinery in the buildings.

Fire Chief Timothy L. McCarthy said the origin of the blaze had not been determined and that he had requested the state fire marshal to investigate.

Bishop-Elect Ryan Asks Prayers in New Post

By JAMES F. McENANEY

His elevation to the bishopric of Burlington, Vt., came "unexpectedly and without any seeking on my part," declared Rev. Edward Francis Ryan, D. D., pastor of Holy Name Church, West Roxbury, today in an interview with the Boston Evening American.

"For those reasons, I feel assured that I am carrying out the will of God," he said as preparations began for his consecration as a member of the Roman Catholic hierarchy.

Fr. Ryan's appointment was announced in Washington by the apostolic delegate, speaking for His Holiness, Pope Pius XII. He will succeed Most Rev. Matthew F. Brady, who has become bishop of Manchester, N. H.

The tall, athletically-built priest humbly called on his present parishioners whom he has served for 12 years, to help him in his new position.

"I shall depend entirely on the grace of God and the prayers of my friends to help me meet, successfully, the many obligations of this episcopal life," the bishop-elect said.

"I regret leaving the parish of the Holy Name in West Roxbury where I have found joy and consolation during the past 12 years, but, quite naturally, I feel greatly honored at being chosen bishop of Burlington.

"Being commissioned to this high station by His Holiness Pope Pius XII means an opportunity to carry on the splendid work of Bishop Brady, Bishop Rice and other worthy bishops who have held that high office in the state of Vermont.

"I am sincerely grateful to our Holy Father for this mark of confidence and I shall do my best to prove worthy of the trust placed in me.

"One may understand that I leave Boston with many regrets, but, thank God, also with countless happy remembrances.

"I regret profoundly that I shall not be privileged to assist actively Archbishop Cushing in accomplishing the many outstanding works I know he will inaugurate in the archdiocese of Boston."

He announced that his consecration will be held in mid-December in Cathedral of Holy Cross with Archbishop Richard J. Cushing as the consecrator. He said the archbishop's assistants will be chosen by Abp. Cushing.

His installation as bishop of the diocese with a population of 90,000 Catholics will be held early in January in the cathedral at Burlington, Vt., he said.

Fr. Ryan, 64 years of age, is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Simon Ryan and was born in Lynn. He graduated from Boston College in 1901, later establishing a brilliant scholastic record at North American College in Rome.

As first prefect of his class, he was ordained in 1905 ahead of the other members and awarded the degree of doctor of divinity. He served in several Greater Boston parishes after his return in 1906, leaving in 1917 to enlist in the Army as a chaplain.

Upon leaving the Army, he served in St. Agnes Church, Arlington, and several other pastorates, before assignment to Holy Name, West Roxbury, to succeed the late Rev. William J. McNamara.

Runaway Horses in Letter Tell Own Story of Wild Dash

By STANLEY CHIPMAN

It is a rare day indeed when one receives a letter from two horses. A letter from one horse would be startling enough.

Letters from horses' owners are no rarity, of course, nor are letters from horses' jockeys, or horses' trainers, or horses' stablers. But let it rest there.

This was a letter from two milk wagon horses, Nellie and Evelyn. It appeared to be a sweet little note of thanks for "the kind way" their recent runaway episode was described in these columns—but underlying it, as you will see, was a coyly couched beef implying the facts were off.

As we had it—and as we still have it—Nellie and Evelyn staged their runaway and spilled their load of milk as a gesture of rebellion against the soul-dulling grind of just stopping and starting for the convenience of Driver John Connors.

Now, over the signatures of both, and written in a fine Spencerian hoof by one—the most lettered one no doubt—comes this:

"We were very sorry for what happened. We have been confined to our stalls for 10 days. We have been unhappy but we felt you should know what happened.

"We were standing outside a restaurant in Summer st., minding our own business and not gabbing about running away—even though you wrote we were. A truck bumped our wagon from the rear. The wagon bumped our derrieres.

"Now we don't have four-wheel brakes, and there was nothing we could do but jump forward. The wagon kept bumping our derrieres and we had to stay out in front all the way from Summer to Congress st. to keep it at a tail's length. Then the wagon tipped over, Connors caught up with us and we've been kept in our stalls ever since. They are repairing the wagon.

"Thank you for the kind manner in which our unfortunate accident was published. It shows you have a horse's viewpoint.

"Sincerely yours,

"NELLIE AND EVELYN.
WHITING.

"P. S. Drop over to the stable and see us some time, Stalls 1 and 2."

We all have a measure of vanity and I suppose that compliment about my viewpoint did the trick. I slipped on my harness and went over, not forgetting to give myself a smart pat on the rump for speed.

There—and you have my hand on a stack of old mystery magazines—I found indisputable evidence that Nellie and Evelyn had not only written the letter but had gone out of their way to use the pen. They usually dictate.

They were dictating the details of their episode to a company stenographer, Miss Alma D. LaChance, while Driver Connors, honest indignation on his brow, stood by.

It was almost unbelievable.

Hub Boy Tells of 4 Years Alone in Wilds

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 18—While a tall, slim boy about 15 years old rested today at the home of Joseph Lebel in Gorham, state officials were investigating his weird story of having roamed the Maine woods for four years, to evade a band of gypsies who abandoned him when 11 years old because he refused to steal for them.

The lad, who said his gypsy name was Charles Smith but did not know his real identity, had appeared at the Lebel place looking for work. When he gave his age as 18 and said his home was in Boston, Mass., Lebel became suspicious and notified Deputy Sheriff John J. Morris.

It was under questioning by Deputy Morris that the boy revealed the amazing story of his early life with the gypsies. He said he had wandered all over the State, sleeping in barns and in the woods and staying only a short time on spare jobs for fear of again coming under gypsy control.

He said the reason he feared the gypsies was because all through the years he lived with them, they beat him cruelly because he would not conform to their code of stealing. He told Deputy Morris he had attended school only three days, could read only a few words and write only his gypsy name of "Charles Smith." He admitted that he had named Boston as his home because of the same fear.

Taken to the county courthouse to be fingerprinted in the hope of tracing his identity, the boy was given his first ride on an elevator and was amazed at the sights "in the big city."

Glass Tubing Saves Arms, Legs

SOMEWHERE IN BELGIUM, Nov. 18 (AP)—A young Canadian doctor in a casualty clearing station near this front has announced discovery of a new method of surgery expected to save the arms and legs of many wounded soldiers.

Working with Capt. Ken. Wilson of Ottawa, Maj. W. T. Mustard of Toronto inserted glass tubing to bridge shattered arteries temporarily and maintain a blood supply in wounded limbs that otherwise would have to be amputated.

"The process has been demonstrated in animals," the major said, "but as far as we know this is the first time it has been done in humans."

Dr. Mustard said the procedure already had saved the shell-shattered legs of a Canadian private and a British captain. The first operation was performed on a prisoner of war, but the blood clotted in the tube and the leg had to be amputated. Heparin solved the problem of clotting.

"Placing a glass tube in the artery can be performed in half an hour," the major said. "Men we get here close to the front line are the worst cases, nearly dead through loss of blood. The operation must be simple and easy."

The wounded captain was the first to have the operation successfully performed.

"He had lost so much blood," Maj. Mustard said, "his foot was cold and white. We put in the tubes and the blood started to flow. We left the tubes in until the captain was in condition to stand an operation. We removed the tubes and replaced the shattered piece of artery with a graft from a vein."

Girl, 13, Lured In Car, Attacked

Attack on a 13-year-old Wrentham girl by two men who used a young and beautiful blonde companion to lure the girl into their automobile was disclosed by State Police today, while the victim, hysterical, was under a physician's care.

The schoolgirl said she walked into her abductors' trap when the blonde, about 20, leaned from a parked car in Franklin st., Wrentham, yesterday afternoon, and beckoned her to the curb.

As the Wrentham girl went to the car, the blonde, whom she described as "beautiful," asked her the way to Franklin. The younger girl pointed out the direction.

The blonde asked her if she were going in that direction. The Wrentham girl said she was and accepted a lift. She sat with the blonde in the rear seat. Two men of foreign appearance, who had taken no part in the conversation, sat in front.

At the next intersection the driver turned the car completely around and headed toward Walpole. Despite her protestations, the Wrentham girl related, she was driven over a gravel road to a wooded spot in Walpole, and the men dragged her from the car.

She said they threatened her in broken English and used a foreign language in talking to each other.

The blonde remained in the car, while the men dragged her 50 feet into the woods, the girl said. There one held her powerless while the other attacked her.

She screamed so loudly the blonde in the automobile shouted a warning to the men that the girl could be heard. The second man had been about to attack her when the girl in the car gave her warning.

The 13-year-old girl said the men carried her 50 feet farther into the woods, where she slumped to the ground in a near-faint. They ran.

State police found the tread marks of tires today at the spot where the girl said the car had been parked. They are searching for a small gray sedan with plaid seat soverings.

The blonde was described as having blue eyes and wearing a blue dress and coat. She also had a diamond ring.

One of the men was about 40, short, stocky and had a small mustache, the girl said. The other was younger, about the same size and had an "ugly face," the victim related. Neither wore a hat.

Probe of Store Fire Begins

Boston Fire Department officials today began an investigation of the two-alarm fire which swept the lower part of the Sallinger clothing store at 482 Washington st., in the heart of the shopping district, causing injury to one fireman and damage of $20,000.

Firemen and apparatus which converged on the five-story building were hampered in fighting the blaze by automobiles parked in the vicinity. Thousands of patrons in nearby theaters were unaware of the fire, but thousands of shoppers jammed Washington st. for several blocks until police roped off the approaches to the building.

James McNeil of Ladder 17 fell through a roof skylight and suffered a lacerated left leg. He was taken to City Hospital and held for treatment.

Two years ago the Sallinger store was located in the Amory Building across the street, scene of a fire that caused $1,000,000 damage and injury to more than 70 firemen and Coast Guardsmen fighting the blaze.

'Taxi Vice Ring' Girl Accusing 7 Men Held in $5000

A 27-year-old brunette and nine men, eight of them taxi drivers, were found guilty of morals charges in municipal court today as a climax to the breaking up of a taxicab vice ring which delivered amorous drunks to the brunette's apartment.

Judge David B. Keniston found three other drivers not guilty of vice charges and continued all the other cases until Monday for disposition.

The woman, Theresa DeRosier, of Lynde st., West End, electrified the courtroom yesterday when she pleaded guilty and named seven of the drivers, who were charged with living off the earnings of a prostitute.

Drivers found guilty were:

Guy Balarese, Poplar st.; Fred Bourne, Irving st.; Joseph Cohen, North Anderson st.; Vito Cazzato, Hancock st.; Rocco Ricciardi, Billerica st., all of the West End; and Louis Pickman, Cambridge st.; Jacob Kates, Franklin pl., Revere, and Anthony Fucarolo of Third st., Medford.

New Cabinet

SEATTLE, Nov. 18 (AP)—An irate woman telephoned Eddy Hiller, Post-Intelligencer city editor, to complain that her alarm clock had stopped and shop after shop had advised her they could not fix it.

Hiller explained that the springs used in alarm clocks were vitally needed for war goods.

"Well," snapped the woman, "I just read in your paper that they are getting a new cabinet in the White House, and if they can spare material for that they can let up on enough to fix my clock."

Leyte Game

LEYTE, Philippines, Nov. 18 (AP)—The 96th Infantry Division was awaiting an almost certain Japanese counterattack. Wired flares were strung around the perimeter so that any intruder would illuminate the area and become a good target for grenade throwers.

Suddenly a flare went off. Two grenades hit the spot.

The bag—a dead horse and two chickens.

Name of the mother was not revealed.

Buddies' Pledge

SAN FRANCISCO (INS)—A strange pledge between two Navy shipmates, one of them killed in action in the South Pacific, was fulfilled here.

Appearing before Superior Judge Thomas M. Foley, Romeo J. Berard, 21, GM 2c, of Spencer, Mass., told the court that he and Robert J. Brewster, 21, of Worcester, Mass., had become buddies after enlisting in the Navy three years ago and pledged that if either was killed the survivor would legally adopt the name of the deceased.

Judge Foley granted Berard's request that he be allowed to take the name of Robert James Brewster.

Puk-Gevaert Tiff in N. Y. Court

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—It looks like the breadline for Puk Paaris, the curvaceous Danish blonde-shell, for hubby, Dr. Joseph Gevaert, has cut off the groceries, she complains in court. Puk, who sued the multi-millionaire Belgian industrialist for separation and $50,000 a year, filed papers in Supreme Court yesterday, stating that Gevaert, in addition to stopping her charge accounts at the exclusive Fifth ave. stores, had "cut off my credit with Gristede Bros., so I cannot get any groceries."

Both Puk and her husband were in there swinging. Gevaert filed papers saying Williamstown, Mass., and not New York, was their home, and asking that his wife's suit be dismissed on that ground.

His defense, Gevaert said, will be based on four points. "1—My wife's prior existing marriage in Denmark. 2—Her own acts. 3—Her very adequate financial condition. 4—My freedom from any fault."

While their real home is at the Williamstown Inn at Williamstown, he said, they have two residences in New York, an apartment at 875 Fifth ave., and "my wife's apartment at 24 West 55th st."

Gevaert said they took the Fifth ave. apartment because of the scarcity of hotel accommodations and because "when my wife and I spent week-ends in her apartment on West 55th st. she at times ejected me, claiming it was her apartment.

Gevaert said his married life was virtually a nonstop performance of "The Last Time I Saw Paaris," listing a divorce and remarriage and four separations since they were first married, April 27, 1941.

He also, somewhat irrelevantly, declared that Puk had been deported to Cuba in 1940, and came back three months later.

PUK PAARIS
Sues for Separation

Puk was no melancholy Dane when she heard these charges. She bounced back fighting mad, giving the impression there was something rotten right here in New York.

She declared indignantly she had never been married before "and my husband well knows that." She denied she had been deported, saying she had gone to Cuba voluntarily, to return under the Danish quota.

And as for ejecting her husband from her apartment, she said that was "completely untrue, and moreover very silly."

Her husband, said Puk, always lived with her at the Fifth ave. apartment "except when he fancied himself aggrieved and bolted out of the house and stayed at a hotel."

The Wiliamstown Inn apartment, she said, is "nothing but a hotel bedroom," and she inquired whether a man of Gevaert's "wealth and social complexion" would have "a mere hotel bedroom" as an apartment?

She said they formerly had lived in the W. 55th st. apartment, but moved to Fifth ave. because Gevaert felt the address was not "socially desirable for a man of his importance and position."

270,795 Vet Claims Allowed, Hines Says

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 18 (AP)—The Veterans' Administration has allowed 270,795 claims for disability pensions for veterans of this war, Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator, told the American Legion's national executive committee today.

By establishing nine area offices to expedite the process, Hines said, the Veterans Administration has acted upon more than 50 per cent of the World War II disability claims thus far filed.

Of the claims allowed, only about 7 per cent, or 18,353, were direct combat disabilities. Of the entire group—combat and non-combat—76 per cent were rated 30 per cent or less disability, and 7 per cent were totally disabled.

Reviewing the whole field of government aid to veterans, in a prepared address before the fall meeting of the Legion group, Gen. Hines reported hospital facilities are being steadily enlarged to provide eventually 300,000 beds—about triple the present facilities.

Veterans' hospitals now in operation provide 89,000 beds, and new projects building or authorized will furnish 20,000 more, he said. Pending, but not yet authorized, is a supplemental 14,000 bed program. The authorized program is for a total of 18 new hospitals.

Under the program of government-financed education provided by the GI Bill of Rights, the administrator said 24,021 applications for aid had been filed and that 17,723 had been approved.

Wreck Sets Fire In New Haven

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Nov. 18 (AP)—An east-bound New Haven freight train buckled in the middle in the cut south of Chapel st. bridge today, tossed five cars, one loaded with gasoline, into the air and brought down high tension power wires which set several cars of the train afire.

Gasoline spread over four main line tracks and ignited and spread over an area of several hundred feet, setting ties of six tracks ablaze. The heat was so intense rails buckled.

Firemen from 10 companies fought the fire from the viaduct and finally subrued it by use of fog-nozzles.

Fear Missing Air Chief Shot Down

LONDON, Nov. 18 (AP)—The RAF plane carrying Air Chief Marshal Sir Trafford Leigh-Mallory and his party to India, reported missing last night, may have been the victim of an enemy long-range fighter, it was speculated here today.

Sir Trafford was en route to take up his new post as Allied air commander in chief in southeast Asia. An air ministry announcement said search had yielded no trace of his unescorted plane.

The new emblem is made of cloth, of the same design as the present honorable service lapel button, and will be worn on the uniform of all honorably discharged personnel.

The basic design of the emblem is embroidered in gold, with background material varying to match the color of the uniform on which it is to be worn.

Bucket Brigade Aids In Chelsea 'Drouth'

With the water supply cut off when a main burst in Carey's sq., Chelsea today, Chelsea Memorial Hospital received emergency supplies from a hastily organized "bucket brigade" of police cruiser cars.

While repairmen worked for more than an hour to restore service, police kept a constant stream of cars bearing water going to the hospital. More than 100 gallons were transported in bottles, jugs and cans.

Besides the hospital, more than 100 homes in the area were affected by the accident.

Blood Donations Lag in Boston

Boston lags far behind other large cities in blood donations, Alan R. Morse, chairman of the Boston Red Cross blood donor service, said today in appealing for more donors.

Morse pointed out that although the American Red Cross has been meeting national blood plasma quotas set by the Army and Navy, Boston has consistently failed to deliver its daily share of the total for the last several weeks.

"If we are to continue to supply blood needs of the armed forces on a national basis, it is of vital importance that the Boston center meet its quota," Morse declared.

17 Ohio Cities In Phone Strike

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 18 (AP)—A spreading strike of telephone operators reached into 20 Ohio cities today.

Demonstrating sympathy for operators at Dayton who quit work early yesterday in protest against employment of out-of-town personnel by the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., operators in city after city voted to walk out. Switchboards were manned partially by makeshift crews.

At 10 a. m. (EWT) today the following exchanges were virtually empty:

Springfield, Tiffin, Xenia, Findlay, Wellesville, Winchester, Sandusky, East Liverpool, Steubenville, Bellaire, Martin's Ferry, Pique, Bridgeport, Uhrichsville, Dennison, Fostoria and Mimiamisburg.

Maybe This Will Ease Your Turkeyless Thanksgiving

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP)—Turkey—golden-brown roast turkey, simmering in the oven—may be only a succulent memory to civilians come Thanksgiving Day, but the advice from the gourmets is:

Why not eat chicken instead?

"Since you can't get turkey," says J. George Frederick, president of the Gourmet Society, "try chicken in a new and exotic way. There are Latin-American, Swedish and—oh, yes, Chinese recipes. Did you know that the Chinese have more than 300 ways of preparing chicken?

"Try chicken Chekiang—with soy sauce, sherry, brown sugar and lots of things."

Or there's the suggestion of the Vegetarian Society of New York—ground nuts and wheat gluten as a turkey substitute.

Food Counselor Crosby Gaige proposes duck as "practical if you remember not to stuff it. Just rub the insides with powdered ginger.

"Chicken, though—there's a kind the Spaniards call paella. It's chicken with rice and a few small clams, seasoned with a little saffron and garlic. Sometimes a bit of fish is added. The chicken, of course, is seared with olive oil."

Yanks Blown to Bits In Nazi Minefields

By FRANK CONNIFF

WITH U. S. NINTH ARMY INSIDE GERMANY, Nov. 18 (INS)—More than a score of doughboys moving through German territory Thursday night came upon a heavily mined area before a Nazi strongpoint and their cries after unexpected explosions tore tore their bodies echoed hideously through the night.

Screams and moans of the pain-tortured Americans came constantly from the area of that certain minefield while other doughboys trudging through the dark only a few feet away were forced to ignore the heart-rending pleas of comrades calling for aid lest they incur the same fate.

Some who braved the danger and heroically went to the rescue were also blown up.

The story was told to this correspondent by Pvt. Henry Phillips of Chicago, a survivor. He recited the details in a command post during a savage Nazi shelling which ruined several jeeps and killed three persons down the street.

Phillips actually snubbed that shelling, although everybody around was scrambling for shelter. But he was still rocky from the harrowing experience of the night before.

"Walking into the Siegfried line," he said, "was tough, but nothing compared to last night. It was heart-breaking."

Phillips and Pvt. Charles Roaca of East Huntington, W. Va., were among five men charged with conducting a company back through the minefield from an exposed position. They were the only ones of the five who came through unscathed.

"The company was dug in against a slag pile," he said. "It was dark. We reached them because our officer knew a path through the minefield. He had been through three times. While returning, however, he lost the way.

"We started back holding hand to hand and stepping in the footsteps of the man ahead.

"Suddenly our leader stepped on a mine and was blown up. He was about three men in front of me. Then we were lost.

"The first thing we knew mines were blowing up all around. We were hitting Schu mines, and they take feet and arms clean off.

"The cries of the sufferers were pitiful. We had to keep going and try to find the path. Somehow some of us got on it.

"There must have been 20 to 30 fellows who stepped on mines. Many lay there all night in terrible agony."

"You can't imagine the awful feeling to be walking through the dark fearing each moment you might hit a mine—especially when your pals are getting it all around you," Roach said.

This correspondent visited the slag pile and found it was still being shelled. Two genuine heroes were discovered there—Sgt. James Watkins of Barnie, Mo., and Pvt. Andrew Chrystal of San Francisco.

Both still were dug in deep in foxholes, their rifles pointing to the sky. All night they had crouched there, listening to the cries of men caught in the minefield.

At dawn they decided they could bear it no longer.

"Our lieutenant really led the way," said Watkins. "There were three men still out there bawling terribly. The lieutenant started for them and we followed. We found them seriously wounded. It was a great wonder they were still alive. We pulled them back to safety. The Lord must have watched over us because we did not hit any mines."

Resume Wilson Trial Monday

Trial of John L. "Limey" Wilson, 28, and Francis J. Murray, 29, charged with the first degree murder of Mrs. Catherine McGinley, 84-year-old Charlestown widow and victim of an atrocious torture slaying, will be resumed Monday in Suffolk Superior Court, following medical testimony that she had been dead from one to two hours before her mutilated body was discovered.

Strategic San Diego

Here is an important destroyer repair base, submarine base and a port of embarkation.

Within a short radius of San Diego lie nearly twenty training camps.

Is it any wonder that Santa Fe looks at San Diego with so much respect for its wartime job and future industrial needs?

Santa Fe, transporting men and material to and from San Diego, feels itself a partner in this city's future.

Santa Fe has installed double track and Centralized Traffic Control at points between San Diego and Los Angeles to speed up service.

New rails, straightened curves and increased yard facilities are also helping to carry a bigger San Diego load.

Listen, America! After the war the fishing will still be good around San Diego, and we don't mean only tuna. We mean the fishing's going to be good for anyone who has something good to make, and wants a good place to make it!

Broke, Gets Highest Honor

PARIS, Nov. 18 (INS)—By borrowing 200 francs, Pvt. Carlton W. Barrett of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., came to Paris to have the Congressional Medal of Honor pinned to his freshly pressed tunic.

This 24-year-old infantry veteran of the North Africa and Sicily campaigns won the highest award of the United States for "gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty" on the Normandy beaches on D-Day.

When Barrett, now a military policeman, was notified to come to Paris to be decorated by Lt. Gen. John C. Lee, commanding general of the communications zone, he was forced to borrow the fare because he was broke. Through a loss of records he had not been paid for several months.

Barrett landed near Saint Laurent Surmer, fighting with the First Infantry Division, and, although wounded in the left foot, both legs and hips, saved many lives by repeatedly plunging into the surf under heavy fire to rescue drowning comrades, and carrying casualties to the evacuation craft.

Barrett's lieutenant, who was wounded, says in the citation "he rose as a leader in the stress of the occasion." Barrett's captain said "all the time the air was filled with machine gun and artillery fire, but Barrett acted as calmly as if he was enjoying Sunday afternoon at the beach."

Kills Man Wife Accuses

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 18 (AP)—Marine Cpl. Arthur D. Foster, 28, was held for grand jury action on a first degree murder charge in the stabbing of Robert E. Hodkinson, 35, allegedly accused by Foster's wife of attack.

Police Capt. Samuel Roberts said Mrs. Foster, mother of three children, had signed a statement saying she told her husband, veteran of South Pacific action home on furlough, that Hodkinson had attacked her. Several witnesses, Roberts said, had related Mrs. Foster pointed out Hodkinson to her husband in the restaurant where the knifing occurred Thursday night and said, "There is the fellow that attacked me."

Hodkinson was the father of five children. Police said his wife was with him when he was killed.

Dr. Peabody Rites To Be Held Monday

GROTON, Nov. 18—Arrangements for funeral services, expected to be held Monday, were being completed here today for Rev. Dr. Endicott Peabody, founder of Groton School and its headmaster for more than 50 years, who died suddenly at the wheel of his car while driving the wife of a former Groton teacher to the Ayer railroad station. He was 87 years old.

As headmaster of the nation's most exclusive boys' preparatory school, Dr. Peabody had taught three generations of Roosevelts, including the sons of Ex-President Theodore Roosevelt and the sons of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

The two sons of President Calvin Coolidge, John and Calvin, Jr., were also Groton students.

Dr. Peabody was also the officiating clergyman at the wedding of President and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, and up to his retirement in 1940, was a frequent and welcome visitor at the White House.

He was born in Salem, May 30, 1857, the son of Endicott and Marianne Lee Peabody. From the age of 14 to 19 he attended Cheltenham College in England. In 1880 he received his LL.B. degree at Trinity College of Cambridge University, and four years later received his master of laws degree.

On his return to America, he spent a year in the banking office of Lee, Higginson & Co., in Boston, and then entered the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge, where he received his divinity degree. For a few months after graduating, he served as rector of a church at Tombstone, Ariz.

During his term at the Cambridge Theological School he formed a lasting friendship with the late Rev. Sherrard Billings, who with Dr. Peabody and William Amery Gardner, founded the Groton School.

A year after the famous school was established, Dr. Peabody married Miss Fannie Peabody of Danvers. Besides his wife, he is survived by a son, Rt. Rev. Malcolm E. Peabody, bishop of Central New York, and five daughters, Mrs. R. Minturn Sedgwick of Boston, Mrs. William Barclay Parsons, Jr., of New York, Mrs. F. Trubee Davison of Washington, Mrs. Elizabeth Peabody of Groton and Lt. Margery Peabody, Army Nurse Corps, stationed in New Guinea.

Only a few weeks ago Dr. Peabody received his first lengthy biography, "Peabody of Groton," written by Frank Ashburn, headmaster of the Brooks School at North Andover, himself a Groton boy.

During his distinguished educational career, Dr. Peabody did much to break down the barriers of austerity and discipline that formerly existed between teacher and pupil, and introduced a system where boys and teachers could work and play together.

mans have been preparing a stiff defense in the streets and behind the thick stone walls of the houses.

In the thrust toward the Saar border, armor newly thrown into the offensive rolled forward four miles to near Bouzonville, 20 miles northwest of Saarbrucken, chief industrial center of the German valley.

Other armored fingers stabbed near Filstroff in a three-mile advance to a point only two miles from the German border and nine miles west of Saarlouis.

Elements of another mechanized cavalry group entered Merschweiller, a mile south of the German border, on the flank of the thrust into Germany.

The punch into the Reich was the second time the Third Army has entered Germany. Patrols crossed from Luxembourg several weeks ago, but there have been no recent reports of their activity.

These operations were two of a series of advances scored by Gen. Eisenhower's six Allied armies driving toward the Rhine along the 400-mile western front.

In the shadow of the Swiss Alps French colonials punched well into the 15-mile wide Belfort gap and were within five miles of its narrowest part at Belfort, which was well within artillery range.

At the northern end of the Allied line the British Second Army in its sweep through the Maas river bulge in southeastern Holland established another bridgehead across the Zig canal, advanced its previous crossing and captured Beringen, 2½ miles southeast of Meijel. The British were rapidly developing a threat to the Dutch border city and communications hub of Venlo, nine miles east.

Farther south the British mopped up remaining pockets of Nazis and completed their firm hold on the Maas front facing Roermond, like Venlo, a gateway to Germany.

The six Allied armies, swelled to a fighting force of 1,250,000 men with a similar number in reserve, were attacking German lines believed held by fewer than 500,000 troops.

diversion of carloads of food, destined for this city, to other areas.

Ordinarily, the week-end before Thanksgiving is one of the busiest of the year at the huge terminal which handles 90 per cent of the perishable foodstuffs for this area. Today, less than 100 cars of vegetables and fruit were in the yards there, whereas normally there would be between 175 and 200.

"The reason shipments are not coming through is that many carloads destined for Boston are being diverted en route, being sold in other cities, because jobbers fear spoilage and loss as a result of the strike," a spokesman said.

Only 37 carloads of so-called "dry" produce—such as potatoes, onions and citrus fruits—were unloaded at the terminal during the night. The more perishable products were kept sealed in refrigerated cars.

Another mass meeting was scheduled at the South End municipal building at which John English, personal representative of Daniel J. Tobin, union international president, will attempt to get the strikers to resume their jobs. Similar efforts by John M. Sullivan, president of the local, and Patrick H. Jennings, its trustee, have proved futile.

Saul Wallen, chairman of the regional War Labor Board, announced he had been assured from several sources that the union's international officers would halt the unauthorized strike over the weekend, and said his board would take no action until Monday.

Q—What is the ruling on a serviceman's family being evicted for non-payment of rent?

L. A., Brighton

A—Where the agreed rent upon property occupied for dwelling by the dependents of a person in military service does not exceed $80 per month, such eviction can be made only upon leave of court. In such a case the court may stay the proceedings of not more than three months, or it may make such other order as may be just.

Q—Will members of the Merchant Marine, who gave up good jobs in order to do their share in this war, be eligible to apply for their old positions after discharge from the service?

L. T., East Boston.

A—Yes, you are protected under law, providing you make application for job within 40 days following discharge. If any difficulties arise, you have same privilege as members of the armed forces in seeking aid of the U. S. Attorney's Office.

Q—Has the Army established any rule regarding sending married men with families overseas? My husband is the father of two children and is now 38 years of age. He wrote and said his regiment was being shipped overseas, part of them as a matter of fact have already gone. I thought they were not sending men in his status out of the country. This matter has caused me a lot of worry; please let me know. Mrs. P., Everett.

A—The Army has no regulations which would keep soldiers, having the same status as your husband, from being shipped overseas. The War Dept. states that men are shipped to whatever points they are needed most, regardless of age or family, under present conditions.

Q—My son is a prisoner of war in Germany and I've been getting allotment checks right along. This month the check came from New York city instead of Newark, N. J. Does this mean something has happened to him or is it that payment is going to be stopped?

M. G., Concord.

A—Payment of allotment checks and Family Allowance to dependents of soldiers who are prisoners of war, or missing in action, will be made by the Office of Special Settlement Accounts in New York city, instead of Office of Dependency Benefits at Newark, N. J. Those accounts have been transferred to the New York office. It does not mean that there is any change in the status of the soldier.

(Questions submitted to Veterans' Friend, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston 6, Mass., will be answered in this daily column.)

3 to Adjudicate Circus Claims

HARTFORD, Ct. Nov. 18 (AP)—Edward S. Rogin, receiver for the Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey Circus, said that counsel for the circus and a committee of the Hartford County Bar had agreed on a method for arbitrating claims arising from the circus fire July 6 which took 170 lives and injured more than 200 persons.

He said the agreement would be submitted for approval to the claimants and their counsel at a meeting at the county court house here Nov. 24.

The agreement provides, Rogin said, for the appointment of three arbitrators, one named by a committee of claimants' attorneys, another by the circus corporation and the third, either a judge of the superior court or a state referee, chosen by the state supreme court chief justice.

Dr. Peabody Rites To Be Held Monday

GROTON, Nov. 18—Arrangements for funeral services, expected to be held Monday, were being completed here today for Rev. Dr. Endicott Peabody, founder of Groton School and its headmaster for more than 50 years, who died suddenly at the wheel of his car while driving the wife of a former Groton teacher to the Ayer railroad station. He was 87 years old.

As headmaster of the nation's most exclusive boys' preparatory school, Dr. Peabody had taught three generations of Roosevelts, including the sons of Ex-President Theodore Roosevelt and the sons of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

The two sons of President Calvin Coolidge, John and Calvin, Jr., were also Groton students.

Dr. Peabody was also the officiating clergyman at the wedding of President and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, and up to his retirement in 1940, was a frequent and welcome visitor at the White House.

He was born in Salem, May 30, 1857, the son of Endicott and Marianne Lee Peabody. From the age of 14 to 19 he attended Cheltenham College in England. In 1880 he received his LL.B. degree at Trinity College of Cambridge University, and four years later received his master of laws degree.

On his return to America, he spent a year in the banking office of Lee, Higginson & Co., in Boston, and then entered the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge, where he received his divinity degree. For a few months after graduating, he served as rector of a church at Tombstone, Ariz.

During his term at the Cambridge Theological School he formed a lasting friendship with the late Rev. Sherrard Billings, who with Dr. Peabody and William Amery Gardner, founded the Groton School.

A year after the famous school was established, Dr. Peabody married Miss Fannie Peabody of Danvers. Besides his wife, he is survived by a son, Rt. Rev. Malcolm E. Peabody, bishop of Central New York, and five daughters, Mrs. R. Minturn Sedgwick of Boston, Mrs. William Barclay Parsons, Jr., of New York, Mrs. F. Trubee Davison of Washington, Mrs. Elizabeth Peabody of Groton and Lt. Margery Peabody, Army Nurse Corps, stationed in New Guinea.

Only a few weeks ago Dr. Peabody received his first lengthy biography, "Peabody of Groton," written by Frank Ashburn, headmaster of the Brooks School at North Andover, himself a Groton boy.

During his distinguished educational career, Dr. Peabody did much to break down the barriers of austerity and discipline that formerly existed between teacher and pupil, and introduced a system where boys and teachers could work and play together.

mans have been preparing a stiff defense in the streets and behind the thick stone walls of the houses.

In the thrust toward the Saar border, armor newly thrown into the offensive rolled forward four miles to near Bouzonville, 20 miles northwest of Saarbrucken, chief industrial center of the German valley.

Other armored fingers stabbed near Filstroff in a three-mile advance to a point only two miles from the German border and nine miles west of Saarlouis.

Elements of another mechanized cavalry group entered Merschweiller, a mile south of the German border, on the flank of the thrust into Germany.

The punch into the Reich was the second time the Third Army has entered Germany. Patrols crossed from Luxembourg several weeks ago, but there have been no recent reports of their activity.

These operations were two of a series of advances scored by Gen. Eisenhower's six Allied armies driving toward the Rhine along the 400-mile western front.

In the shadow of the Swiss Alps French colonials punched well into the 15-mile wide Belfort gap and were within five miles of its narrowest part at Belfort, which was well within artillery range.

At the northern end of the Allied line the British Second Army in its sweep through the Maas river bulge in southeastern Holland established another bridgehead across the Zig canal, advanced its previous crossing and captured Beringen, 2½ miles southeast of Meijel. The British were rapidly developing a threat to the Dutch border city and communications hub of Venlo, nine miles east.

Farther south the British mopped up remaining pockets of Nazis and completed their firm hold on the Maas front facing Roermond, like Venlo, a gateway to Germany.

The six Allied armies, swelled to a fighting force of 1,250,000 men with a similar number in reserve, were attacking German lines believed held by fewer than 500,000 troops.

Strike

diversion of carloads of food, destined for this city, to other areas.

Ordinarily, the week-end before Thanksgiving is one of the busiest of the year at the huge terminal which handles 90 per cent of the perishable foodstuffs for this area. Today, less than 100 cars of vegetables and fruit were in the yards there, whereas normally there would be between 175 and 200.

"The reason shipments are not coming through is that many carloads destined for Boston are being diverted en route, being sold in other cities, because jobbers fear spoilage and loss as a result of the strike," a spokesman said.

Only 37 carloads of so-called "dry" produce—such as potatoes, onions and citrus fruits—were unloaded at the terminal during the night. The more perishable products were kept sealed in refrigerated cars.

Another mass meeting was scheduled at the South End municipal building at which John English, personal representative of Daniel J. Tobin, union international president, will attempt to get the strikers to resume their jobs. Similar efforts by John M. Sullivan, president of the local, and Patrick H. Jennings, its trustee, have proved futile.

Saul Wallen, chairman of the regional War Labor Board, announced he had been assured from several sources that the union's international officers would halt the unauthorized strike over the weekend, and said his board would take no action until Monday.

Q—What is the ruling on a serviceman's family being evicted for non-payment of rent?

L. A., Brighton

A—Where the agreed rent upon property occupied for dwelling by the dependents of a person in military service does not exceed $80 per month, such eviction can be made only upon leave of court. In such a case the court may stay the proceedings of not more than three months, or it may make such other order as may be just.

Q—Will members of the Merchant Marine, who gave up good jobs in order to do their share in this war, be eligible to apply for their old positions after discharge from the service?

L. T., East Boston.

A—Yes, you are protected under law, providing you make application for job within 40 days following discharge. If any difficulties arise, you have same privilege as members of the armed forces in seeking aid of the U. S. Attorney's Office.

Q—Has the Army established any rule regarding sending married men with families overseas? My husband is the father of two children and is now 38 years of age. He wrote and said his regiment was being shipped overseas, part of them as a matter of fact have already gone. I thought they were not sending men in his status out of the country. This matter has caused me a lot of worry; please let me know. Mrs. P., Everett.

A—The Army has no regulations which would keep soldiers, having the same status as your husband, from being shipped overseas. The War Dept. states that men are shipped to whatever posts they are needed most, regardless of age or family, under present conditions.

Q—My son is a prisoner of war in Germany and I've been getting allotment checks right along. This month the check came from New York city instead of Newark, N. J. Does this mean something has happened to him or is it that payment is going to be stopped?

J. Those accounts have been transferred to the New York office. It does not mean that there is any change in the status of the soldier.

Match Famine Adds To Smokers' Woes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (INS)—Smokers already plagued by the cigarette problem have another torment sneaking up on them in the increasing shortage of matches, and they may have to turn to "lucifers" as a substitute.

Lucifers is the familiar name for the taper-like tallow matches long in use in Spain and Argentina from which countries the United States may have to import such matches.

Shipping difficulties have enormously restricted the importation of wooden Swedish matches in wartime. In 1939, the last year for which figures are available in Department of Commerce files, 626,384 gross of such matches, 100 to a box, were imported.

Both Spain and Argentina manufacture large quantities of "lucifers" or tallow matches. Argentina especially has increased its annual output enormously during the last five years, from 630 million boxes of 40 matches each in 1939 to 26 billion boxes in 1940 and thereafter.

Argentine officials said today that their country could step up match production sufficiently to meet American demands because of availability of all raw materials needed for the purpose, including cotton, tallow and sulphur.

Two government girls had a solution for the current cigarette shortage—and right in the shadow of the Office of Price Alministration, too.

Mrs. Una Franklin and Mrs. Dorothy Thomson, employes of the Office of War Information's writers section, appeared at work today—smoking pipes.

War Fund Has 5 Days to Go

With contributions needed at the rate of more than $250,000 a day between now and Wednesday if the Greater Boston United War Fund campaign is to reach its $7,650,000 goal by Thanksgiving eve, volunteer workers today began a final all-out drive to get in subscriptions. The fund total today stood at $6,214,100.

In anticipation of heavy contributions, Malden police have arranged to relieve team captains of the responsibility for the money workers turn in, and have offered to pick up the funds in cruiser cars and take in to headquarters for temporary safe keeping.

Campaign headquarters today received a generous contribution from a group of 60 extra banquet waiters, who gave their tips for one night. The waiters, whose livelihood depends on one-evening jobs, made their offering through their union, Hotel and Restaurant Employes, Local 34, AFL.

Boston public schools continued their wholehearted support of the drive as four more went over the top, bringing the total of schools exceeding their quota to 50. The latest four are the Girl's Latin School, the Sherwin and Warren district schools, and Speech Improvement classes.

8 Vets Head 129 On Police List

Eight war veterans today headed a list of 129 men who passed examinations for appointment as military substitute patrolmen in the Boston Police Department. The eight leaders, announced by Thomas J. Greehan, state civil service director, are:

Paul F. Carey, Winthrop st., Roxbury; Thomas J. Foley, Columbia rd., Dorchester; Myles J. Connors, Woodmont st., Brighton; Earl W. Campbell, Edwin st., Dorchester; John M. Owirka, Lincoln pk., South Boston; John J. Royce, Jr., Firth rd., Roslindale; Thomas E. Walsh, Woodman st., Jamaica Plain., and Lawrence F. O'Donnell, Hampstead rd., Jamaica Plain.

Knudsen Reveals Plan To Double B-29 Output

FORT CROOK, Neb., Nov. 18 (AP)—Lt. Gen. William S. Knudsen, director of the Air Technical Service Command with headquarters at Dayton, O., said the Army is aiming to double its production of B-29 bombers in the next three months.

Describing the B-29 as "worth its weight in gold," Gen. Knudsen said that the production of B-29s must be intensified because "it is the quickest and best means to smash Japan."

Shoemaker Hero Medal to Mother

Battle-hardened Marine veterans of the Pacific snapped to attention at Boston Navy Yard today as R. Adm. Felix X. Gygax pinned the Navy Cross on the mother of Capt. William G. Shoemaker, USMCR, former Boston University hockey star, who died a hero of the invasion of Guam.

Accompanying the posthumous award of the medal was a letter to the youthful captain's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Shoemaker of Averill st., Lynn, from Lt. Gen. Vandegrift, Marine Corps head.

Expressing his condolence at the loss of their son, he wrote:

"The Marine Corps shares your pride in the heroic conduct of your son."

The medal was awarded for Capt. Shoemaker's heroic conduct during the Empress Augusta bay operations on Bougainville last November and December.

Jobless Total 630,000 in U. S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (INS)—The Bureau of Census reported that there are 52,240,000 men and women employed in the civilian labor force, and only 630,000 jobless workers.

Last year at this time found 70,000 fewer potential workers employed, and 280,000 more unemployed workers.

It was estimated by the Census Bureau that there are still 40,090,000 non-workers of the potential worker classification, 14 years of age and older.

Special Salvage Pickup Today

Because rain marred the final day of collections in the city-wide November waste paper and scrap tin campaign, city trucks today made a special mop-up tour through Wards 15 to 22. Salvage Director George G. Hyland said reports indicated that many householders and storekeepers did not put out paper and tin because of the inclement weather.

"The need for these salvage materials is so great that we cannot afford to let any paper or tin wait until the December collection," he added.

Collections in the past five days produced 1,343,530 pounds of paper and 212,200 pounds of tin. Salvage officials were hopeful that today's special drive would bring the monthly waste paper yield close to last month's record high figure of 1,554,460 pounds.

Surplus Set At 499 Million

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (INS) — Commerce Secretary Jesse Jones reported that governmental property costing $499,207,000 had been declared as surplus to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation by the owning federal agencies as of Oct. 31, 1944.

Aircraft and aircraft equipment was valued at $410,630,852 and RFC-owned surplus property amounted to $199,914,000 which, with other federally-owned property, brought the total to $699,121,000, Jones said. Of the latter amount, Jones said property costing $103,874,000 had been disposed of for $79,475,000.

Manning Kin In Estate Battle

A petition seeking the removal of Atty. John M. Cunningham as administrator of the $1,000,000 estate of the late Joseph F. Manning, wealthy Boston tobacco merchant, was on file in Suffolk Probate Court today.

Two daughters of the tobacco merchant, Mrs. Katherine M. Conroy and Mrs. Virginia M. Griffin, filed the petition, charging that Cunningham, who married a third Manning daughter, had "assumed to exercise control and attempted to influence established policies of the business."

The two daughters claimed this had resulted in dissension and dissatisfaction among the company's employes. They also started injunction proceedings to prevent a meeting of the stockholders of the J. P. Manning Co., scheduled for Monday, naming Cunningham, his wife, Mildred, and the company as defendants.

Judge Frederick J. Diloln issued a temporary restraining order, enjoining the defendants from holding the meeting until a hearing has been held on the ouster proceedings.

WAKING UP

IT IS encouraging to find members of the Massachusetts Legislature recognizing the all-important truth that the prosperity of the entire New England area depends on the Port of Boston.

If the law-making bodies of the five other New England States arouse themselves similarly, we may be able to start the economic development which is our right by reason of our unique geographic position.

This week the Massachusetts Special Legislative Commission to Investigate Railroad Transportation charged:

"The lifeblood of the Port has been drained away by corporations uninterested in Massachusetts and seeking to bolster their investments elsewhere."

Unfortunately the dying harbor will not be revitalized by accusations and caustic utterances.

The only thing which will restore Massachusetts and New England to their former position as the major portal to the Eastern United States and Canada is IMMEDIATE ACTION.

We must have new legislation and appropriations not only by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts but also by ALL THE NEW ENGLAND STATES AND THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT.

No honest person can deny the fact that the whole New England area will always be half-asleep economically and industrially as long as the Port of Boston continues in its present deplorable condition.

FAR TO GO

THE CENSUS BUREAU has announced that a child born today has twice as good a chance to survive the first year of life as a baby born in 1915.

Obviously we have heeded some of the warnings of far-sighted men like the late Arthur Brisbane, who frequently told the nation:

"The Indian mother bearing her baby alone in the wilderness was safer than a modern American mother in a modern American home or hospital."

The 1944 doctor is better informed and more skillful; maternity centers are cleaner and more adequately staffed and equipped; prenatal care has been raised to the level of a science, and everywhere there is a more intelligent and sympathetic attitude toward mothers and their babies.

In spite of our improved facilities, AT LEAST ONE BABY IN EVERY TWENTY-FIVE IS DYING EITHER AT BIRTH OR DURING THE FIRST YEAR OF LIFE.

That is a shocking and thoroughly needless waste of the most precious thing on this earth.

TIME TO ACT

AN ALERT official of Britain's Bristol Airplane Company says his company plans to construct an air-liner that will be the biggest, heaviest, most luxurious and fastest winged vehicle in the world.

"At present, America has nothing to compete with it and nothing even approaching it," he boasts.

Bostonians who want to see that aerial monster had better arrange trips to New York or some other wide-awake city.

The pilots of such a ship would never be so foolhardy as to attempt a landing on our cow-pasture airport.

Of course, if we are as wise and sensible as our British allies, we shall begin to think seriously about reconstructing our out-moded flying field and preparing to share the prosperity that will come with aerial monsters.

But that is probably too much to expect. The persons responsible for the neglect of Boston have been asleep a long time. They are going to be hard to arouse.

TOKIO, North Dakota, which is in the heart of the Sioux Indian reservation, is not named after the Japanese capital. North Dakota's Tokio is never spelled with a "Y." The name of the town is of Indian origin . . . The reason "The Star Spangled Banner" is usually sung by female soloists is because it is in too high a key for a male voice. So a musical authority informs me. This should be rectified. Why not a version of the National anthem for male soloists? I would like to hear Lawrence Tibbett or Bing Crosby sing it often.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: "That red-haired beauty Cleopatra" is a reference I note. Cleopatra was no beauty. She didn't look like Claudette Colbert. Her success in affairs of the heart was due to fact she understood men. Besides, as I have stated, she was brunette . . . Am informed three career girls of Manhattan who share an apartment had a contest to see who could get dressed to go to work the quickest. The winner did it in four minutes and 15 seconds. Wonder how quickly she could get dressed to go to the theater. A New Yorker told me his wife could get dressed to go out anywhere in 15 minutes. SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 18—I don't aim to go lookin' for no trouble, pardners. Treat me right and I'm the fairest, squarest hominy—I mean hombre—east of the Pecos.

But don't rile me none because I'm liable to become a rootin' shootin' terror.

I have just been made an honorary Texas Ranger.

I HAVE a big commission plastered with a gold seal and signed by Gov. Coke R. Stevenson to prove it. There was also a piece in the papers. They did not wish to be too blatant about this, however, so they concealed it under the heading: "Newspapermen Visit Texas."

As I trust you will recall, I am down here to cover the Texas-in-War Celebration. We are touring the State and doing the most amazing things. In fact, I will say—without fear of successful contradiction—that this has been one of the most fantastic days of my life.

It ranged from being sneered at by 300 young school of journalism ladies to seeing one of my colleagues try to find his way to the microphone and—literally—get lost in a banana grove.

MAYBE THIS should be told chronologically because it's jumpy enough as it is.

We left Waco and went to Temple. Then we went in an Army transport to Austin which is the State capital. The Governor took a look at us and saw such a fine body of men that he made us all honorary rangers.

Then we were taken to the University of Texas, which does not have a president for the nonce because Homer P. Rainey quit in a big row with the board of regents. It seemed the regents caught Rainey saying nice words about Vice-President Henry Wallace, which is considered little short of treason in this part of Texas.

ANYWAY, we went to the School of Journalism, the students of which seem to be nearly all dames. I am not making any cracks about what this augurs for the future of the newspaper business, but there it is.

WELL, MANY of us did not feel so good from the night before, but we tried to answer questions. It seems these young dolls are very serious-minded. They asked the darndest questions like: "What is the attitude of Congress toward the Dumbarton Oaks agreement?" They didn't seem to want to know a thing about Tommy Manville.

Here was another question: "What chance is there for Henry Wallace as President in 1948? Will Henry become Secretary of State when Hull resigns? What's to become of Sumner Welles? Any chance of getting rid of Jesse Jones?"

WE FUMBLED around that one; in fact, I do not believe I have ever heard such maundering and drooling by grown men. But I trust you will not judge us too harshly. Just try to answer that question yourself.

I sort of wanted to know why the dolls were seemingly so strong for Wallace and against Jones, but I didn't dare ask. They completely daunted me.

By the time the unhappy forum was over we had completely lost caste.

WE TOOK another Army plane to San Antonio, where we were given a wonderful time by the Chamber of Commerce. San Antonio is truly the magic city—and the fact that 14 members of the Chamber are looking over my shoulder does not influence me in the least.

They gave us a big dinner in a lovely outdoor amphitheater and we all had to make speeches. All I gotta say is that newspapermen shouldn't talk. Mr. Lyle Wilson of Washington got so tangled in eulogizing San Antonio that he said he intended to come back and visit it some day, even if he had to bring his wife.

Mr. Ray Tucker of Washington was called to the microphone but the glare of floodlights blinded him. He walked straight past the toastmaster into a clump of banana trees and we had a terrible time getting him out.

Olivia DeHavilland

The new yarn is a thriller titled "Red Quarter" and deals with a convict in a penal colony who unexpectedly becomes a vital factor and a hero in the war. It's intended to bring the earthy Hodiak right back to the brawny, he-man attraction he registered in "Lifeboat," his first hit with Tallulah Bankhead.

POOR OLIVIA DE HAVILLAND. She's stuck for six months or more in the Fiji Islands. In a letter to her sister, Joan Fontaine, Livvy writes: "They have changed their minds about flying me home. After this long siege with pneumonia, the Army doctors feel I am not strong enough for the trip and that the long flight might make the lung congestion condition worse. So they are keeping me here 'til I am fully recovered, which may be six months or more." Certainly the Fates have not been dealing kindly with Olivia. First, her troubles with Warners that have kept her off the screen over a year, and now this USO jaunt where she fell ill with pneumonia and is confined to an island hospital.

STEVE FISHER, the Cosmopolitan Magazine writer, says Frank Sinatra can become another Henry Fonda if he wants to. There's something wrong with that picture. I suppose he means Frankie Boy can learn to be a very good actor if he puts his mind to it and Fisher is going to provide the opportunity by whipping up an original for him at RKO. Considering he had the pick of the studio's contract stars to fit to a yarn, he must have faith in Frankie's histrionic ability. Story has no title, but it has a college background, with the correct number of rah-rah songs tossed in, I suppose.

THERE'S A producer on the Monogram, whose initials are Jeffrey Bernerd, who makes swell pictures. His latest, "They Shall Have Faith," is another surefire hit for his company, for Gale Storm and for himself. Around this office we are particularly interested in this movie, which deals with infantile paralysis, because of the work of Neil Rau, of LOP's staff, on the original story and the script. But the surprise was when our boy friend cropped up with credit on one of the beautiful songs, too.

MAYBE BETTY GRABLE will be happier making movies now that Harry James is coming to her lot for "Kitten on the Keys." Not only will the James' band be present to do a little hot cooking but Harry gets a substantial acting role in this movie for George Jessel. It will be filmed about the time his bride, Betty, starts "The Dolly Sisters."

HOLLYWOOD IN SHORTS: Evelyn Keyes and Charles Vidor made up over the telephone and he moves back home again when he returns from New York. Reconciliations are certainly in the air what with the Humphrey Bogarts, Susan Hayward and Jess Barker, Rudy Vallee and his bride, Barbara Hutton and Cary Grant all cooing again; Bette Davis didn't get in town Wednesday, as expected, which started the rumor all over town she was staying East to marry Cpl. Riley. However, since Bette hits the ceiling when her name is coupled with the corporal's, just pretend we never mentioned it; when T. Netcher returns from Chicago he'll marry pretty Norma Hall to whom he has been devoted for six months. Fact is, the lady is shopping for her trousseau now; Kurt Kreuger goes into "Hotel Berlin" as one of the heel-clicking Nazi heels; it takes Robert Young two hours to put on that "homely" makeup for "Enchanted Cottage"; Bob Lowery with Barbara Blair (her hair is now red) at Mike Lyman's; Tallulah Bankhead winds up "A Royal Scandal" today and heads for her Connecticut farm on Tuesday; it's a church wedding for Veronica Lake and Andre De Toth.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—Celeste ("Bloomer Girl") Holm and her second husband have Reno in the beano. Career trouble, intimates say . . . Jealousy between two high ranking WASP officers over the fact that one of them had been named delegate to the International Aviation Conference resulted in neither of the girls going. Admiral Byrd was selected instead . . . Busby Berkeley will wed Marge Pemberton, a "Glad to See Ya" showgirl . . . A Raffles who broke into Betty Bruce's 52d st. apartment the other night made away with $3000 worth of jewelry . . . Both Billy Rose and Abe Lyman claim to have come out the winner in their recent suit. What cooks? . . . Harlemites believe Hazel Scott will waltz down the aisle with a prominent politician up there as soon as he gets his divorce . . . Emily Jewell, who used to be Al Jolson's big moment, is telling friends that she's the bride of a broker . . . The biggest current kick among jazzmen is Ravel's "Daphnis and Chloe," of all things . . . Those lovelorn magazine factories are after Doris Duke Cromwell to write her true marriage story . . . Dixie Dunbar, who is walking again after that polio scare, will be dancing sooner than you think.

CHOO CHOO JOHNSON has given up luncheon dates since she took that night club job—she sleeps until 5 p. m. . . . The John Calhouns (she was Grace Pickens of the singing sisters) are lullabying their fourth bambino—a boy . . . A 52d st. sweet shoppe, has a standing order from a Washington biggie to deliver a huge gingerbread boy daily to Joan McCracken. What does that mean? . . . U. S. railroads are working under a tremendous strain. Breakdowns in midwestern transportation systems are expected if new rails and equipment aren't forthcoming soon. . . . The new Molly O'Day-Jack Durant baby will arrive with the robins . . . New trend in fandom: Alan Ladd's lobby picture at the Paramount Theater is almost obliterated by carmine Cupid bows from bobby sox kisses.

CECIL B. DeMILLE has been given 30 days to pay that one dollar assessment to AFRA, the raidio actors' organization. DeMille insists he will go to the Supreme Court in his fight, if necessary, and the whole matter seems to be leading to something as big as the Petrillo record ban.

Boston After Dark

JACK SHARKEY'S CONDITION IS improving, and the motion picture "break" that wouldn't happen when "The Squire" was well is imminent . . . If Hy-Charlie" was to win again today at Rockingham, the long odds won't be because any of the Cinderella horse's brain trust kept the winning probability a secret . . . Boake Carter's untimely death shocked a small host of Boston admirers . . . Billingsley (Sherman the Great) is being harried and heckled over a New York radio station—in spite of his "strength"—but Boston commentators are warned not to mention the Messrs. Shubert or their shows or their theaters in a critical way that might be interpreted as derogatory.

VICTOR ALLEN, most handsome member of the turf advisors' local, is sailing south by air for the Gulfstream track's racing season, and his only detour is the familiar New York stop-over . . . This route will permit the greying Mr. Allen to visit with Gertie Niesen, dynamic star of "Follow the Girls."

IT IS NICE to behold Bruce MacFarlane in a part in "A Bell For Adano" which gives the popular and able son of Alice Gentle, the opera prima donna, a chance to display his talent . . . Bruce played the leading role in "Sailor, Beware," and married his leading lady, Audrey Christie . . . Audrey and Bruce carried on for seasons as a "happily married Broadway couple" . . . When the split-out occurred (and it wasn't inevitable) Miss Christie became the bride of Guy Robertson, the musical comedy juvenile . . . Came a dissolution of that romance . . . But Miss Christie's talent kept her on top with the help of a fine casting break as one of the three stars of "The Voice of the Turtle" . . . Meantime, Actor MacFarlane was getting a series of mishaps in his profession . . . but the best sort of a break in love . . . He married a nice (non-professional) girl from a society family of moderate wealth who dislikes seeing her name in print . . . The right role eluded him, however, for seasons and seasons . . . Now he has it. (Best of the so-called war plays, "A Bell for Adano" should be a "smash" in New York.)

MUMURINGS: The solid pest who once greeted you with: "Long time, no see!" is now exclaiming, upon the merest provocation: "You'll be sorry!" (To deliver that bon mot expertly, the pest elongates the vowel in "sorry" . . .) A North End restaurant quelled a minor riot the other evening by placating a cop who suffered a bad beating and the loss (by tearing-off) of his clothes . . . The incident never would have been a matter of record except for fellow-officers of the humiliated policeman.

BROCK PEMBERTON and Frank Fay tried to insist that your reporter be permitted to attend the first night of "Harvey" at the Copley . . . But one of the Messrs. Shubert (or both) won that protracted argument. (We then saw "Harvey" and raved about it) . . . It seems that the Messrs. Shubert's lawyers convinced one of the Messrs. Shubert (or both) that the Supreme Court's decision probably prevailed over the Massachusetts legal decision that "a ticket is a license."

BUT ONE OF THE MESSRS. SHUBERT (or both) had the "last word" . . . In order to win admittance to a Shubert theater in order to lavish praise upon some show we happen to like (or pan one we don't like) yours truly must buy his ticket . . . That wouldn't be a terrible hardship except that one of the Messrs. Shubert (or both) has (or have) a commanding influence at Herricks, Inc., and Herricks, Inc., the ticket agency, manages to get most of the best seats for shows (Adv.) which are housed in theaters owned, operated or controlled by one of the Messrs. Shubert (or both).

"I know it's ultra-smart, but I want my old clothes back. I hadn't got out of this department before I began hearing, Robin Hood — Robin Hood — Robin Hood'!"

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, FRIDAY, Nov. 18—Late Wednesday afternoon I went over to the Walsh Club, where a group of government girls were entertaining wounded servicemen from Walter Reed Hospital.

These girls are planning to use their club, which is really very attractive, as a place where they can invite servicemen for parties, and they would also like to be able to visit them in the hospital. This first group of men from Walter Reed were invited partly so that the girls could ask their advice as to the best way of breaking the ice, making friends and getting on with the men. I think I was asked over in the hope that I would be able to contribute something to the discussion.

UNFORTUNATELY, I cannot help a great deal, because the only real value that I have when I visit hospitals is that I bring the men the assurance of the President's interest in them. When I ask them how they are or where they come from, they are not thinking about me as an individual; they are just thinking that the President is interested in them, and that usually gives them a lift.

YET THESE GIRLS can bring with them what is probably the best medicine possible. They have youth, and the chance of giving the young man a feeling that he can do something for them. As one of the boys said:

"It would be nice if you didn't always try to do things for us, but let us do more normal things in the way of entertaining you."

YESTERDAY AFTERNOON I attended the bazaar of the French-American wives and was very much interested in an exhibition of the first French clothes to be received here since Paris was liberated. Two of the dresses had the old leg-of-mutton type of sleeves which I remember in my youth and I hope that it isn't going to become a "must" for all of us, because I don't think it was a very pretty fashion. An American officer bought these dresses on his first day in Paris and sent them back to his wife. I think it was an excellent idea to put them on exhibition for the benefit of French relief.

Scarf Glamour for All

Fashion

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

WRAP YOURSELF IN SCARF GLAMOUR for this season it is an important fashion accessory. A scarf is glamour for the style-wise gal . . . gaiety for the campus queen . . . bright warm cheer for the country hostess. And, as a timely Yuletide gift . . . it removes the guesswork from gift-giving and says "Merry Christmas" with a smart style accent.

The stores have a large and varied holiday assortment of Glentex, leading scarf stylist . . . which because of their gorgeous coloring and designs tax selection. If it's drama you're after, you'll hate to part with a bold leopard-spotted scarf that's wonderful for the gals who make a habit of black sports clothes. The 33-inch rayon crepe square . . . that interprets the fabulous fur . . . would be stunning with an untrimmed coat.

If you want radiance for yourself or to give to a friend . . . there's the black-bordered rayon chiffon square large enough to frame the face and shoulders in a romantic sari for formal flattery delicately traced with muted pastel flowers.

FABULOUS SQUARE OF PURE SILK

For the lady you want to pamper . . . there's a fabulous square of pure silk to wear around the neck of a dark dress . . . one long and flowing from the shoulder. Stylized dragons and scrolls are executed by Glentex with the glowing color that recalls priceless porcelain. A gift to cherish is the pure silk satin scarf soft as a whisper against the throat . . . with fragile flowers scattered among swirls on a turquoise, deep pink, or corn gold ground. Looped through a choker necklace . . . it makes a distinctive collar with a dark dress.

Twinkling with all the gaiety of an old-fashioned Christmas tree are the sequin-studded scarfs styled for this season's emphasis on elegance. Multicolor paillettes and iridescent stars glitter on boldly splashed floral print in rayon crepe . . . perfect when worn in pairs as a poncho over the shoulders and tucked into the belt of a cocktail dress. Sparkle-trimmed wool jersey ascots are the quick touch that takes a soft suit from the office to dinner with an air of eclat.

If you're a college girl and a tweed-fancier . . . a heart-warming thought is the Glentex chill-chaser . . . a long, fringe-edged scarf in heavenly soft all wool with a brushed surface . . . to fling stole-wise over a classic coat or to drape around the shoulders at home in the fashion of Alice-sit-by-the-fire. These are fun in boldly colored plaids and stripes that add a festive note. Persian Paisley squares in a mood of Oriental opulence are grand complement for the cardigan.

THERE'S NOTHING so feminine for a lovely face as a scarf hugging it in girlish fashion . . . and this season a scarf is a smart-style accessory. For a bit of intriguing glamour and formal flattery . . . frame the face and shoulders sari style as this New York lovely has . . . with a smartly-styled black-bordered rayon chiffon square scarf . . . designed by Glentex . . . and colored with delicacy of figure and interest.

Grand Chicken Dishes -:-

By MARTHA LEE

TWICE A WEEK SERVE CHICKEN. It's the very thing to do, for chicken is plentiful; it can be served in more variety than any other meat, and all ways it is delicious. If your family sighs, "Chicken again!" it's a sure sign you haven't been using your imagination or your cook books to find some of the many ways that chicken tastes good.

A time-saver s a suggestion that will take care of several chicken dinners with one cooking. Take two 3-pound fryers, stuff them with your most savory stuffing and roast them. Serve one roasted chicken hot; the second, slice cold for another dinner. And out of the scraps you can have minced chicken sandwiches for a lunch or supper and some chicken and vegetable soup. Or you may prefer a chicken pot pie or creamed chicken from the second bird.

SAVORY STUFFING

1 medium-sized onion, minced
1 tsp. sage 1 tsp. thyme
1 tsp. salt ½ tsp. pepper
2 sprigs parsley, chopped
2 tbsp. minced celery leaves
1-3 cup margarine or butter
6 cups day-old bread crumbs

Cook onions and other seasonings in fat 2 or 3 minutes. Add bread crumbs, mix thoroughly. An egg may be added, and a little liquid—water, broth or milk. This amount is enough for the two fryers.

CHICKEN POT PIE

3 cups diced, cooked chicken
3 medium potatoes, sliced
1 tsp. chopped onion
⅓ cup flour 1 tsp. salt
2 tbsp. chicken fat
¼ tsp. pepper
2 cups chicken stock
½ tsp. chopped parsley
½ recipe plain pastry

Alternate layers of chicken and potatoes in a greased baking dish. Brown the onion in hot fat; add flour and seasonings; blend. Add chicken stock; cook until thick. Add parsley; pour over chicken and potatoes. Top with pastry strips. Bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 1 hour.

PLAIN PASTRY

2½ cups sifted flour 1 tsp. salt
⅔ cup cold shortening
5 tbsp. cold water (about)

Mix and sift flour and salt. Cut in half of the shortening with 2 knives or a pastry blender until mixture looks like cornmeal. Cut in remaining shortening until particles are the size of a pea. At one side of the bowl add 1 tablespoon cold water and stir in as much of the flour mixture as the water will take up. Continue adding water, 1 tablespoon at a time, until you have 4 or 5 balls of dough and some dry mixture left in the bowl. Press all together lightly with fingers, and if all the dry flour is not taken up, add a little more water. Remember, the less the dough is handled, the flakier the pastry. Chill and roll. Makes one 2-crust 9-inch pie.

Creamed chicken is good on mounds of hot fluffy rice with plenty of chopped parsley tossed in. Scraps of meat may be added to a plain muffin recipe (omitting the sugar, adding more salt, and 1 teaspoon of poultry seasoning). Serve with creamed vegetables, or a tossed green salad.

Sandwich fillings use up scraps too. Mince bits from the bones (about 1 cup); add a little grated onion and about 1-3 cup of chicken broth; blend. Spread on thin slices of bread with salad dressing. Make into triple-deckers, and French toast them, seasoning egg mixture with sage and salt.

PICK UP YOUR COSTUME with contrasting accessories. This classic suit is given an exciting note with such important accents as the stitched black and white taffeta hat and matching oversized bag . . . fashion stimulants for any dark backgrounds. The topper may be a little hard to wear . . . but on Warner actress Eve Arden it is an eye-catcher.—R. M.

Plan Second JVA Trip to Hospital

Busy collecting books, magazines and playing cards for another trip to a veterans' hospital are members of the Wildcat Junior Victory Army corps in Arlington and those in the 4-H clubs, under direction of Henry F. Keenan.

Their recent trip to Bedford Hospital, where they put on an extensive exhibit of their work, as well as distributed reading matter and cards and other items to the men, proved so successful that another visit is in the making.

"We took up a ton of books and magazines and over 100 packs of playing cards," said Mr. Keenan, "and you should have seen the men go for the comic books. They loved 'em."

A letter this week from the commanding officer of the hospital to Mr. Keenan expressed the men's deep appreciation for what the young people had done. So the JVA's, working through the schools and various other organizations in Arlington, are off on another hunt for books and cards to be put into a collection in preparation for another hospital visit sometime in December.

To join the JVA, send your name, age and full address to Junior Victory Army headquarters, P. O. Box 228, Boston, Mass. If, in addition to enlistment, you want the JVA insignia pin and membership card, enclose a 10-cent coin well wrapped in your letter.

Read the next JVA story in Sunday's Advertiser.

Wins Musical Top Role at 19

"Things are happening too fast," says Alma Kaye, 19-year-old ingenue lead in the Theater Guild's new musical, "Sing Out, Sweet Land!" at the Colonial.

Petite and pretty Alma's face becomes too earnest for her few years when she talks about the rapidity with which she was hurled from near-obscurity to down-stage, center! Down-stage, center—in theatrical jargon—means the spot on stage that is reserved for leading actors.

Alma, who is making her stage debut opposite Alfred Drake (of "Oklahoma!" fame) in "Sing Out, Sweet Land!" was born in Stratford, Ct., studied singing and dancing as a child, and after she graduated from high, studied music at the Julius Hart Music Foundation in Hartford.

She went to New York to make a movie short with the Korn Kobblers and wound up as a soloist at Kobblers' Korner, a popular Broadway restaurant. Then Harry Conover, spotting her there, asked her if she'd like to model during the day. Alma was delighted because the extra income allowed her to study with Sano Marco, the famous voice teacher at Carnegie Hall.

Maestro Marco was so impressed with her abilities that he called in an agent friend who got her an audition for "Sing Out, Sweet Land!" She sang three numbers at the audition—frequently singers never get an opportunity to finish even one—and then and there Lawrence Langner and Theresa Helburn, co-administrative directors of the Guild, signed her for "Sing Out, Sweet Land!"

So Alma, who expected years of struggle and disappointments, finds that things move too fast.

'Christmas Holiday' At Beacon Tomorrow

"Christmas Holiday," the picture which introduces Deanna Durbin as a tragedienne and Gene Kelly in an unsympathetic, non-dancing role, is to be seen on the Beacon screen for a four-day run beginning tomorrow.

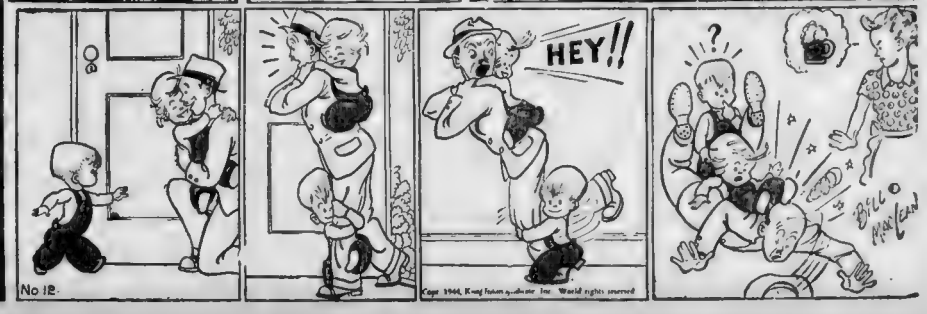
DOUBLE TROUBLE



Harvard 12, Tufts 6

Navin (40) of Harvard Goes Around End for a 6-Yard Gain Against Tufts

Irwin scooted to the 28 for a first down. Now the stands were really in uproar. George Feldman made four yards to the 25, and then Joe Feldman, on a reverse, scooted 19 yards to the six-yard stripe.

George Feldman bulled his way to the three. Here a five-yard offside penalty seemed to have shattered Tufts' high hopes because it still had three yards to go on fourth down.

At this point George Feldman started as if on an end run, faded back and tossed a neat pass into the hands of Granhan in the end zone. It was the first pass Tufts had completed all day. The stands were hushed as Irwin tried for the extra point which would have put underdog Tufts in the lead. But Irwin's kick went wide of the goal posts.

Score: Harvard 6, Tufts 6.

THIRD PERIOD

Harvard resorted to the double shift to regain the lead. Stymied by gritty Tufts during most of the period, Harvard got a life when Tufts punted short in its own territory.

Harvard took the ball on Tufts 46. A Navin-Perkins over-the-line pass gave the Crimson a first down on the 35. Then the numble Britts scooted around end to the 26.

Held here, Harvard worked the double shift, pulled Tufts offside and got a first down on the 21. A Navin-Garrity screen pass was completed with Garrity racing to the 12, for a first down.

Cowen carried to the nine, Fritts to the 4. Tufts was penalized to the one, whereupon Cowen dived over to give Harvard the lead as the period ended. The kick failed.

Score—Harvard 12, Tufts 6.

Army Scores On 66 Yard Romp

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A perfect Indian summer day greeted unbeaten Army and Penn in their football game. There wasn't a person among the 70,000 spectators who didn't believe the Cadets would chalk up their second triumph in the series that was started in 1901.

FIRST PERIOD

Penn gave its adherents a surprise by sending Sica over guard for 12 yards on one play and stopping Army's attack cold after the ensuing punt. When Penn got the ball again Sica once more broke through, this time for 15 yards. A Minisi to Seidenberger pass brought the ball to the Army 21. Penn took the ball to the 13 before Army took over.

Hall woke up the Cadets with a pair of runs that brought the ball to the Cadets' 34 and then Minor shot through the center of the line for 66 yards and a touchdown, which Walterhouse converted. Pitzer sent Minor into the clear with a crisp block. A Lombardo-to-Hall lateral was knocked down by Sticked and picked up by Schuman, who rambled for a touchdown. Lawless kicked the tieing point. Just before gun Hall broke through for 46 yards and another Army tally, but attempted conversion was spoiled.

Score: Army 13, Penn 7.

SECOND PERIOD

A 36-yard punt return by the swivel-hipped Davis set up a third Army touchdown which Blanchard scored on a one-yard plunge and which Walterhouse converted. Lombardo grabbed a Penn pass and lugged it 19 yards to the Quaker 29-yard from where the Cadets marched to the 7 where the Quakers knocked down a pair of passes and took over.

Gordon's punt wobbled only 17 yards before going out of bounds of the Penn 24 and it wasn't long before Davis shot over from the three for another Army tally and Walterhouse made it 27 to 7. After a 27-yard run Sica brought Penn almost to midfield, Lombardo halted the Quakers by intercepting another pass as half ended.

Score—Army 27, Penn 7.

THIRD PERIOD

After the kickoff Penn couldn't gain and Kenna took Minisi's punt on the 46, handed it to Davis and the California comet went through the entire team for another score. Walterhouse converted. A 40-yard Kenna-to-Davis pass brought the Cadets into scoring territory again, but the drive stopped on Penn's 15.

Davis registered again, this time on an eight-yard romp after taking a lateral from Lombardo and Walterhouse came in to convert. It was his 44th extra point of the year and tied the national collegiate mark held by Clyde LaForce of Tulsa in 1942.

A Penn fumble gave Army the ball on the 11 and the Cadets scored, Blanchard catching a pass from Hall. Sensanbaugher plunged for the point. Another Penn fumble, which Poole corralled on the Penn 4, allowed Tucker to pass to Poole for a touchdown. Chabot passed to Foldberg for the 55th point.

Score—Army 55, Penn 7.

Black Hawks Face Tough Foe

By the Associated Press

While all the clubs in the National Hockey League face a tough grind this week-end indications are that Paul Thompson's Chicago Black Hawks face the most potent opposition.

Now holding down the anchor position with only one win in six starts, the Hawks clash with the league-leading Toronto Maple Leafs in the Queen City tonight and play a return match with the same club on home ice Sunday.

The Leafs, not yet fully recovered from two setbacks by Detroit Red Wings, are expected to put plenty of punch behind their drive for a double victory to keep them at the head of the parade.

TWO LOSSES TO TORONTO

So far Toronto has lost only two games in eight starts—both of them to the third-place Detroit club.

Detroit, with four wins and three losses and currently regarded as the "team to beat," clash with New York Rangers tonight and meet Boston Bruins tomorrow night. The Wings dropped a 5-2 decision to Rangers last Saturday and will be out to avenge the defeat. In their first meeting of the season, Detroit walloped the New York Rangers 7-1 and later trounced Boston 10-3.

Montreal Canadiens, with five wins and two losses—both to Toronto—tangle with Boston at Montreal tonight and with Rangers at New York tomorrow night. The flying Frenchmen are in second place, two points back of Toronto.

HOPPE IMPROVES LEAD

DETROIT (AP)—Willie Hoppe, world's three-cushion billiards champion, hiked his lead over Welker Cochran, San Francisco challenger, to 42 points yesterday by defeating Cochran, 50 to 46, in 39 innings. The victory boosted the New Yorker's margin to 800 to 758.

Hamberg of Middies Scores in First Period

BALTIMORE (AP)—Purdue's Boilermakers came out of the Midwest to stake comparable power of a top Big Ten Conference eleven against Navy's Midshipmen, currently among the nation's leading grid outfits. It was the second meeting of the two teams, Navy's 1926 national titleholders having licked the Boilermakers, 17 to 13.

FIRST PERIOD

Hal Hamberg starting for Navy, put the Midshipmen in front after 6½ minutes, engineering a 53-yard drive to pay dirt. After a Purdue punt, Hamberg promptly picked up 10 yards to the Purdue 42. Again he raced to the 18, and after a short gain by Barron the little Navy star broke through to the five. Scott made a touchdown in three tries and Finos converted, making it Navy 7, Purdue 0.

The Boilermakers got to midfield on a short drive, but Bramlett recovered Pfohl's fumble on Navy's 43. Hamberg again commandeered the way to a score. He slipped through for first down on the Purdue 38. Scott in two tries got to the 24. After picking up five more, Hamberg passed to Ben Martin for the touchdown. Finos again converted making it Navy 14, Purdue 0. Hamberg lifted a pretty 46-yard punt out of bounds on the Purdue nine as the period ended.

Score: Navy 14, Purdue 0.

SECOND PERIOD

Dimancheff took charge after Canfield had lost five to the Purdue four. Dimancheff led a march that carried to the Navy 32 before the Middies' forward wall rose to stop it. Runs of 20, 10 and 16 yards by Dimancheff were coupled with shorter gains by Pfohl. At the 32, Navy's linemen tossed Pfohl and Dimancheff for ten-yard losses and took the ball on its 45 on an unsuccessful fourth down pass attempt by Canfield.

An Ellsworth-to-Barron pass carried to the Purdue 36. Ellsworth, Scott and Barron went on the ground to the 19, but Dimancheff's leaping interception of Ellsworth's aerial ended the threat. Dimancheff ran it back to the Purdue 26. The Boilermakers couldn't gain and Pfohl punted. Scott racing the boot back 38 yards to Purdue's 29. Hamberg shot an aerial to Barron on the nine, Hamberg passed to Scott, who fumbled on the five, Canfield recovering for Purdue as half ended.

Score: Navy 14, Purdue 0.

Louis to Exhibit Wares in Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 18 (AP)—Sgt. Joe Louis will appear on next Friday night's boxing show in the Chicago stadium his first appearance here in a fight card in six years.

The heavyweight boxing champion will box a three-round exhibition against Dun Merritt of Cleveland in a card featuring an eight-round bout between George (Sugar) Costner, Cincinnati welterweight and Sgt. Lou Woods of Detroit.

Yale at Full Power For North Carolina

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Nov. 18 (INS)—Yale's undefeated Bulldogs now at full strength, were an overwhelming favorite to trounce North Carolina in a grid clash today in Yale Bowl.

Back in the fold for the game with the Southerners were three regulars who had been out of action because of leg injuries.

Treasury Sale Set For A-N Tickets

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP)—The Navy announced today that public ticket sales to the Army-Navy football classic Dec. 2 will be handled by the Treasury's bond sales division in Balitmore at prices not yet determined. The announcement made it definite that a bloc of seats would be reserved for the Cadet Corps, as well as the Midshipmen.

This insured a colorful renewal in the Baltimore Stadium which is capable of handling 70,000 persons.

There was no official estimate on the number of seats which might be available to the public. Unofficial guesses ran from 30,000 to 40,000.

Ticket applications already received for the game when it was scheduled to be played in Annapolis, instead of Baltimore, will be issued. Additional blocks will be reserved for midshipmen and cadets and certain other officials. The remainder will be turned over to the Maryland War Finance Committee.

The Treasury announcement said in part:

"The remaining block of tickets will be turned over to the Treasury Department, which will reimburse the Navy Athletic Ass'n for the purchase price, and these tickets will be sold by the Treasury's war finance committee for Maryland in the Baltimore area.

"In other words, the only public sales of tickets will be handled by the war finance commitee—not by the War or Navy departments nor by the Army or Navy Athletic Ass'ns.

"Tickets will be available for issue on Nov. 27.

"The war finance committee of Maryland will shortly announce its plans for taking orders for the tickets."

BALTIMORE, Nov. 18 (AP)—There were cheers from all sides today as the Army and Navy switched their traditional football rivalry to Baltimore after two years of gridiron jousting in the war-mandated comparative secrecy of the shores of Annapolis and the plains of West Point.

Beyond the simple announcement that the Dec. 2 tilt, on which may hinge the national collegiate championship, would take place in Municipal Stadium here before 71,000 fans instead of Annapolis where 19,000 would have watched, there was little to be known.

School Sidelights

By MIKE GILLOOLY

In spite of the fact that the schoolboy gridders persist on carrying on their football season beyond the normal Thanksgiving Day dates, the hockey officials are going right ahead with their plans for the 1944-45 campaign with the Greater Boston Interscholastic loop officials setting the early pace.

They met earlier this week to discuss their schedule, hash out their adopted rule changes, formulate plans for All Star games and to elect new officers.

With perennial secretary Garrett Foley of Cambridge Latin retired from the ranks, Lewis "Polly" Harris of Belmont took over the duties and also those of treasurer, Ralph Sanborn of Newton will be in the driver's seat as president to be assisted by Henry Lynch of Rindge Tech. New members to the faculty ranks, Henry Bucci of Medford and Bill Fraser of Cambridge, met the opposition for the first time.

There was considerable talk of changing the usual plans for the All Star game for Washington's Birthday but the matter was left indefinite until a future meeting. Instead of having a team from Canada come here, the GBI All Stars may take on an American High School Championship team from Minnesota, providing expenses will not run too high. It's still in the rumor stage right now, but it may develop.

Five games will make up the Sunday football schedule . . . these will pit Mission vs. St. Mary's (B); St. James vs. Immaculate Conception; Angel Guardian vs. St. Patrick's; St. Mary's (W) vs. Keith Academy and Cathedral vs. St. John's (D).

SAUGUS FINGERS CROSSED

It's fairly safe to say that Coach Dave Lucey of Saugus will be rooting for Peabody to beat Salem when this highly disputed game is finally played at Manning Bowl Dec. 2 . . . for if Coach Lucey's plans work out, his Sachems can't miss being crowned state champion . . . the ex-B.C. gridder hopes to whip Peabody, and then sit back to watch the Tanners knock Salem out of the undefeated class . . . and wouldn't a Saugus victory on Nov. 27 throw a monkey wrench into the title picture.

The Record-American-Sunday Advertiser Board of Coaches will be meeting shortly after Thanksgiving to pick the official All Scholastic team for 1944 . . . As in other years, 11 players will make up the team—without substitutes or spares, and they'll be the choices of the coaches themselves who have been working with the kids through the season . . . release date on this team will be announced later.

South Boston High's stock dropped considerably after the Charlestown game so that the City Pointers will be no better than an even choice against East Boston at Braves Field Thursday morning . . . Capt. Steve Karalevicz' work at tackle was one of the bright spots in that narrow escape over Charlestown.

St. John's High Boy Harrier King

John Preston, representing St. John's High of Danvers, the first private school and non-member of the Mass. Headmasters' Association to compete in the annual cross-country race at Franklin Park, jaunted across the finish line 17 seconds in front of Leonard Winslow of Melrose for his 6th harrier victory of this year.

Melrose high, paced by Winslow, won in team competition with the low score of 46 points.

The summary:

Penn Plans Aerial Attack on Army

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 18 (AP)—A young and inexperienced Penn team is expected to rely on aerial attack as its only apparent possibility of scoring against the nation's number one team, the undefeated West Pointers, on Franklin Field today.

Army has rolled up 419 points to 21 in seven games. Penn is twice defeated. Penn tied a powerful Army team last year 13-13.

Dashing Pics to Open at Garden

With a record of three victories, one tie, and one defeat behind them in road games, the Boston Olympics will finally show the home folks what they have to offer for the Eastern Hockey League campaign when they skate out onto the ice at Boston Garden tonight.

Their opponents will be the clever Washington Lions, who boast the only victory over the Pics so far this season. The teams will meet again at the Garden tomorrow night.

The Olympics, who for the eighth successive season are under the tutelage of Coach Hago Harrington, are a mixture of veterans from last year's championship outfit and several brilliant newcomers whose presence in the Boston line-up has already paid large dividends.

Foremost among the newcomers are the flashy Theo Hamel at center, speedy Marcel Fillion at left wing, and sturdy Maurice Lallo at defense. Hamel comes to Boston after having helped Quebec Aces to the Allan Cup championship last winter; Fillion is the property of the Boston Bruins whose play is being sharpened with the Pics; and Lallo is a colorful Timmins, Ont., youngster who is performing in senior company for the first time.

Two other new boys are Mint Wenaus, forward, and Bingo Ernst at defense. The former hails from Regina, Sask., and the latter from Halifax, N. S., both of whom played in junior ranks a year ago.

Yanks at Peak for Fens Finale

By HUCK FINNEGAN

It's been a long, long time since the Yanks have been home—Oct. 15 to be exact. You'd think after four games on the road they'd be coming back to stay for a while. But no. They'll be CLOSING their home season when they entertain the Brooklyn Tigers at Fenway Park tomorrow.

The schedule was all against the Yanks this fall. They played three games here in early season when they were ill-equipped to handle their better-manned foes. Now, when they look like a full-blown major league club, they have only one chance to strut their stuff before Bostonians. Well, they're brand new this season, and a new club in any pro league can expect to take only the lumps.

The Yanks took their lumps—for a while. But those days are gone forever, critics say.

"If the Yanks keep playing as they did against the Bears last week, they'll not only wallop the Tigers but will win their last two road games" (Redskins and Detroit), said broadcaster Frank Ryan. "Bostonians will be amazed at the improvement in the team since early October."

The Yanks were at their best in Chicago. "They seem to have gained the confidence that goes with a winner," Coach Kopf admitted, relating how they kept knocking Luckman down all afternoon, and permitting him to complete few passes except on the flat.

The Tigers haven't a passer of Luckman's caliber but Charlie McGibbony from Arkansas State is doing quite well for a freshman. And behind him is Johnny Butler from Tennessee, well known to B.C.'s Sugar Bowlers. But the No. 1 star of the Brooklyn outfit is Clarence (Call me "Pug") Manders, 60-minute, 210-pound fullback. Manders is the Giant who's kept the club in every game they have played this season—with the help of a stalwart line featuring Bruiser Kinard and Bob Masterson.

The Yanks, however, will take care of them nicely if—and it's a big IF—they're on their game. They'd better be with Ted Collins in the stands.

Collins risked pneumonia to watch the Yanks Friday practice . . . Tony Falkenstein worked overtime trying to absorb the Yanks' plays so that he can face his old teammates .

Fritts Runs 48 Yards For Harvard Touchdown

By HUCK FINNEGAN

TUFTS OVAL, Nov. 18—Playing its first game since Oct. 14, Lew Manly's Tufts eleven entertained Harvard's "Informals" here today for the first time in modern history. Harvard, beaten only by the more experienced PT Boat eleven this season, was a heavy pregame favorite. It has been strengthened since October vacation by the addition of Fritts and Morter from Dartmouth. Tufts, conversely, lost several standouts since early season, including wingback Kearns and end McClain.

There was a crowd of 4000 in the wooden stands at game time.

FIRST PERIOD

Harvard seemed on its way to a touchdown early in the first period, traveling from its own 45 to Tufts 33 on the ground, Cowen starring.

But the first time it tried a pass Rautenberg, Tufts center, intercepted Navin's toss on the Tufts 33. Later, Walz and Irwin combined to carry Tufts from its own 20 to Harvard's 48, but there the attack stalled.

Play for the rest of the period was centered between the 20-yard stripe, but on the last play of the stanza Tufts was detected clipping on a runback of a punt and was set back to its six-yard line.

Score: Harvard, 0; Tufts, 0.

SECOND PERIOD

Tufts seemed to have wormed out of the hole nicely when Walz quick-kicked smartly to the Harvard 48, but on the first play from scrimmage Harvard's Fritts broke off tackle and, eluding a bevy of tacklers, scooted down the sideline 48 yards for the first score of the game. It was a masterful piece of individual running. Garrity's try for point was wide.

Score: Harvard 6, Tufts 0.

It took the gallant little Tufts team only 10 minutes to tie the score. Benefitting by a short Trumbull punt which went out of bounds on the Harvard 46, "Let's go," roared the Tufts fans, and the Tufts eleven accommodated. Joe Feldman, star of the first Harvard-Tufts game, raced to Harvard's 41, and a moment later

Malden 6, Everett 6, At End of Thriller

By MIKE GILLOOLY

EVERETT STADIUM, Nov. 18—An underdog Everett High School eleven, pushing across a first period touchdown, wound up in a 6 to 6 deadlock with traditional rival Malden here this afternoon.

Not only did Everett baffle Malden but nearly came through with a victory as Conrad Pensavalle hit the peak of his schoolboy career.

On more than one occasion, Pensavalle was on his way to a touchdown only to have the secondary stop his drives. He did everything in outshining the highly touted Malden offensive and at the end he nearly sewed up the game for Everett only to be nabbed at midfield.

FIRST PERIOD

The game was exactly two plays old when Everett's Bob Millen fell on a fumble on the Malden 41. Conrad Pensavalle tore off a first down to the 26.

Three plays gained nothing for Everett so Pensavalle faded back and heaved a pass to John Laspina on the Malden 2. Pensavalle lunged over but the attempted conversion failed.

Score: End first period—Everett 6, Malden 0.

SECOND PEHIOD

Nick Belisis halted an Everett threat by intercepting a pass on his own 16 and then started Malden on a touchdown drive with an 18-yard run to the 34.

John Carroll battered his way to the Everett 26 on three plays. Al Wagner took over to the 14 with Belisis completing the 84-yard drive in romping to a touchdown, untouched by an Everett player.

Al Macy converted on a placement, but this was nullified by a holding penalty. Belisis then attempted to pass for the point, but he overshot the target.

Score at half: Everett 6, Malden 6.

THIRD PERIOD

Play was deadlocked as neither club could make headway on the slow field. Coach Dennie Gildea of Everett continued to shift his team, for offensive and defense and the strategy was working to perfection, holding Malden to a single first down.

Pensavalle continued to threaten as he continually broke through the line only to be brought down by the Malden secondary.

Score: End third period—Everett 6, Malden 6.

FOURTH PERIOD

Everett's defenses baffled the Malden attack and it was Everett that threatened throughout the period. With Pensavalle passing and running, Everett marched from its own 28 to the Malden 30 only to have a penalty and then an intercepted pass stop them in their drive.

Later Everett came back again, nearly breaking Pensavalle loose at midfield. It ended with Malden throwing desperation passes.

Final score—Everett 6, Malden 6.
